14,000 OUT ON STRIKE DECLARES LEADER OF COTTON OPERATIVES

FIFTH EDITION

BOSTON AMERICAN

VOL. 9—No. 116. BOSTON, MONDAY, JULY 15, 1912. Registered in U. S. Patent Office. ONE CENT.

NEW BEDFORD, July 15.—Between 13,000 and 14,000 cotton operatives in twelve mills struck today. Following this a mass meeting was held at which the extension of the strike was discussed.

The mill owners will shut down the twelve mills tonight.

The strike is over the grading system. The strikers demand that this system be abolished. Eight mills abolished it, but the operatives there may be called out in sympathy. Should the fight be prolonged all the mills of the city may be tied up. At a special meeting o fthe weavers tommorrow night the question of extending the strike will be discussed.

THOUSANDS ARE ON STRIKE.

Secretary Francis Duffy of the Weavers' Union made this statement today:

"The union officials won't be able to tell the exact number of men out until tomorrow night, when the rollcall will be complete, but from the reports received I should estimate the number of strikers to be between 13,000 and 14,000, and by the end of the week every branch of the industry will be out, including the firemen."

At the opening hour, crowds in which were hundreds of women, gathered about the gates. Many of the strikers went in to draw their last week's pay or to get their tools.

In front of the Dartmouth mills, 1,500 persons gathered, and cheered when the loom fixers went in, got their kits, and walked out.

The manufacturers held a meeting this morning. The carders and spinners are to hold meetings and it is expected these unions will vote to go out to support of the weavers. In any event, if the weavers remain out, there will be no work to do in the mills by Wednesday.

Mill Men Plan Fight.

Secretary William O. Devoll of the Manufacturers' Association said at the meeting today:

"We might as well fight this thing out now as later. The fight must come. The men are talking strike more and more all the time, even in other departments.

"The strike apparently was caused by the grading notices, but as a matter of fact, the standard list demand is back of it. The men want a standard price list which they would be paid the same rate for the same amount of work, regardless of the quality of the cloth or other conditions."

FACTS AND FIGURES IN BIG STRIKE AT NEW BEDFORD MILLS

Total out on strike in twenty-one mills.....	14,000
About half of these are women.
Total operatives remaining at work, about....	6,000
Total pay of the strikers, weekly.....	$100,000
Aver. pay per worker	$6.50-$7.50

Demand of the strikers—the abolition of the "grading system" fines under which an operative is paid less for one class of work than for another. They complain the work is classified arbitrarily, and that the fact that the work is second class is the fault of material or the machine rather than of the operative.

Twelve companies have refused to grant the demand. It is the mills of these companies in which the strike is effective.

GOVERNOR ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

Governor Foss sent word to David I. Walsh of Clinton today that he would be a candidate for re-election and that he hoped Mr. Walsh again would be on the ticket with him. The Governor also took a poke at Walsh and District Attorney Pelletier for remaining bachelors, and said that both could wait a year before running for Governor and maybe either or both would be married by that time.

Governor Foss' message to Mr. Walsh confirms the exclusive story in yesterday's Sunday AMERICAN that the Governor will be a candidate for re-election. Governor Foss is preparing a formal statement to be given out within twenty-four hours as to his position on the third term demand.

The Governor returned to the State House today after spending Sunday at sea on board the cruiser Chicago as Admiral of the Massachusetts Navy. The Governor was in fine spirits. He said he had a good time, but that now that he had doffed the admiral's uniform which he wore yesterday, he was glad to get back to land.

Among the Governor's callers was Major Thomas T. Walsh, brother of David I. Walsh. Major Walsh after seeing the Governor said:

"The Governor said to me:

"'Tell Dave I'll run for Governor another year. Tell him I shall expect him to run on the ticket with me.'"

"Dave" is David I. Walsh of Fitchburg, the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor last year.

On his desk at the State House the Governor found more than a hundred letters and telegrams from persons all over the State asking him to run again.

Governor Foss made a second reference to his determination to run again when he talked with callers. The Governor said:

"Considering the fact the two avowed candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor are bachelors and that there are 60,000 young unmarried women in Massachusetts who are of marriageable age, I think I'll give both of them another year at least in which to qualify."

"Qualify for what?" the Governor was asked.

Governor Foss smiled.

"To qualify for being Governor of such a State as Massachusetts," he replied.

Then another caller asked:

"Then you believe, Governor, that the head of this State should be a married man?"

"Certainly, of course; certainly," answered the Governor, "So I think I had better give both of them another year in which to qualify."

Mr. Walsh and District Attorney Pelletier, both of whom have announced their candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor, are bachelors.

ARBITRATION BOARD OPENS SESSIONS ON ENGINEERS' DEMANDS

MANHATTAN BEACH, N. Y., July 15.—The men who will determine whether the fifty-two railroads in the eastern section of the United States shall increase the pay of their locomotive engineers in an amount annually aggregating, according to the railroads, more than $7,500,000—the arbitration board—began their sessions here today in the Oriental Hotel. The demands of the engineers were made on March 14 last, and after a long series of consultations it was decided that the matter be referred to a board of arbitration of seven members, each side to name one member, and the two thus chosen to select the remaining five.

These two failin gt oagree, the five other members were to be chosen by the chief justice of the United States, the presiding judge of the Commerce Court and the United States Commissioner of Labor, acting together. The United States officials had to name the five members, as the original two failed to agree.

D. O. SODER, AUTOIST ARRAIGNED TODAY FOR KILLING GIRL

STUDENT HELD IN AUTO DEATH

BROCKTON, July 15.—David O. Soder, a Tufts sophomore, who is working his way through college, and who surrendered to the police as the person driving the automobile which killed Miss. Ella Alice Hennessy of Bridgewater, was arraigned in the district court today on a charge of running away after he had injured a person with his machine. Soder pleaded not guilty and his case was continued until July 25 to await the result of the coroner's inquest. The young chauffeur was represented by Attorney Francis M. Terrill of Boston and was held in $500. Bonds were provided.

The police today said they had learned the name of the young woman who was with Soder Friday night. They declared she was Miss Rena Berglund of Cary street, this city.

Soder is employed by Mrs Angie Browne, a well-to-da widow living at No. 1013 Main street. Mrs. Browne was in court.

CAR PASSENGER HURT IN CRASH WITH AUTO TRUCK

One man was hurt today when an electric car and a motor truck crashed at Gray and Chelsea streets, Charlestown. Arcadian Orin of No. 997 Broadway, Chelsea, who was standing on the running board of the car, was taken to the Relief Hospital suffering from fractured ribs. The motor truck, owned and driven by Bernard McLaughlin, of No. 10 Main street, Charlestown, was coming out of Gray street, when the electric car ran into it.

JOAQUIN MILLER IS SERIOUSLY ILL

OAKLAND, July 15.—Joaquin Miller, the "poet of the Sierras," is seriously ill at his home, "The Heights," due to over-exertion when he spoke at a Fourth of July celebration. All visitors have been refused admittance to his bedside. The poet has been in ill-health since last year, when a nervous breakdown caused a long confinement in a hospital.

MISS ABOTT SAILS TO SING IN NEW YORK

PARIS, July 15.—Several notable Americans left Paris for Cherbourg to sail for New York on the steamship Auguste Victorin. Among them was Bessie Abott, the grand opera prima donna, who has been engaged to take the part of the Maid Marian in the all star revival of "Robin Hood." Miss Abott is accompanied by a maid and her Company as to customers in the district.

STOCKHOLM, July 15.—America today won the 1600-metre relay race. France was second and Great Britain third. The time was 3 minutes, 16.6 seconds.

The members of the American team were Melvin W. Sheppard of the Irish American A. C.; James E. Meredith, of Mercersburg (Pa.) Academy; Charles D. Reidpath of Syracuse University and Edward Lidberg of the Chicago A. A.

America also won second place in the 800-metre swimming race. This gave the United States five points, making its total 123.

Australia won. Perry McGillivray of America was second and Great Britain was third.

ARGUMENTS OPEN IN SUIT TO PREVENT SCHOOL IN FENS

The court night to prevent the building of the High School of Commerce in the Back Bay Fens, in which Mrs. John L. Gardner and other Bac kBay property holders are interested, opened today in the United States District Court before Judge Colt, with arguments by counsel in the suit against the city and high school commissioners of Allen K. Thayer of No. 30 Fenway. Mrs. Thayer seeks an injunction to restrain the city and high school commissioners from erecting the proposed commerce school. Judge Colt declared that his determination of the question at issue could not be final.

"This court cannot declare void an act of the Massachusetts Legislature," said Jurge Colt, "on the ground that it violates the constitution of rights unless it is settled that the personal rights of the plaintiff have been transgressed."

Former Mayor Nathan Matthews, appearing with Attorney Nichols, opened the case for Mrs. Thayer.

FIREBUG AT WORK IN TWO TENEMENTS

Two incendiary fires in the North and West Ends early today threw the occupants of dwelling houses into a panic and sent them scurrying to the street.

In the three-story brick dwelling house at No. 11 Richmond street a dozen persons, women and children, were driven out. A mattress had been ripped open in the basement and set on fire.

At the four-story brick dwelling at No. 91 Leverett street the occupants fled. The fire started on the first floor, and an investigation convinced the police it was incendiary in origin. The loss was $250.

MAYOR TO GET ICE "MONOPOLY" PETITION

A petition from several hundred residents of the Mt. Hope District of West Roxbury will be filed today with Mayor Fitzgerald, requesting that he investigate the ice monopoly which is alleged to exist there. The petitioners allege that an agreement has been entered into between the Hub Ice Company and the Highland Ice Company as to customers in the district.

The second will fight of Dakota Dan, who says he is Daniel Blake Russell of Melrose and who wants half of the half million dollar estate left by the late William Russell, started with a sharp clash of counsel today before Master Gilbert A. Pevey in the East Cambridge courthouse.

William R. Scharton, Dakota Dan's new lawyer, succeeded in getting an adjournment until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when he declared he would have "half of Melrose at the courthouse."

Sensations may be expected in the case as District Attorney Higgins today received a letter from Scharton asking that he present the whole will fight to the Grand Jury so that those who have been lying and committing perjury, according to Scharton, may be prosecuted criminally. Dakota Dan wants to appear before the Grand Jury and tell his story.

Asks for Delay.

Scharton started out by asking for a delay until the Supreme Court had passed on a motion he has filed asking for a modification in the order of the court as to how the case shall proceed and also for the removal of Pevey as master on the ground that he is prejudiced.

Lawyer Robert Nason objected strenuously to any delay. He stated that the court had ordered them to proceed. Master Pevey said that he saw no reason to delay the case.

Then Scharton wanted to know if the stenographer who was in court was an official stenographer. He said he might want to use the notes in the future, and intimated that he was going to fight the will contest to a finish. It turned out that the stenographer was employed by Nason.

"You can have the report if you pay half the expenses," said Nason.

Scharton wouldn't do it. He asked Nason if he expected much change in the testimony.

"I expect that many of the witnesses will not testify according to the notes of the last trial," said Nason.

"Lapses of Memory."

"You mean that there will be lapses of memory," suggested Nason.

"Yes, that's what I mean."

Scharton kept up the fight for delay. He said that to proceed when he had not had a chance to look into the case and had ten minutes of the long trial was "drastic and unusual."

"Will you let Mr. Scharton use your minutes of the trial?" Master Pevey asked Nason.

"No," replied Nason.

"My client is entitled to a fair hearing," kept on Scharton. Asa Sheldon, formerly associate counsel for Daniel Blake Russell (Dakota Dan) has a copy of the minutes, but he is owed $200. I think I can raise that amount by this afternoon as I'm expecting some money from North Dakota. Also I want to get some more witnesses here."

Nason said that was a fair request and the case was adjourned. Fresno Dan, the man accepted as the last brother of William C. Russell, was in court. William C. Russell was not present.

MITCHELL SENTENCE IMPOSED WEDNESDAY

WASHINGTON, July 15.—John Mitchell, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, adjudged in contempt, will be sentenced by Justice Wright on Wednesday. Through his attorney, Mitchell agreed to waive his right to be in court when sentence is passed, and the penalty will be imposed in his absence.

BODY OF MALDEN MAN, 85, FOUND IN RESERVOIR

Less than half an hour after William Simpson, an aged resident of Malden, left his home today his body was found floating in the Malden reservoir. Whether death was due to accident or was intentional is not known.

About 5:30 a. m. Simpson left the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harriett E. Medding, No. 19 Cedar street, Malden, for his usual morning walk. He is eighty-five years old, and came from his farm in Maine to make his home in Malden about two years ago. Louis R. Muller of No. 21 Vista street, Malden, while on his way to work, saw the body floating in the reservoir. Patrolman Thomas F. Shaughnessy brought the body ashore in a boat and turned it over to Medical Examiner Thomas M. Durell. It was removed to Ward's undertaking rooms in Irving street.

Boston Ancients Welcomed by King at Buckingham

LONDON, July 15.—King George, after inspecting the detachment of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, now on a visit here, and the Honorable Artillery Company of London, in the garden of Buckingham Palace today, advanced to the centre of the hollow square formed by the companies and addressing the men, said:

"I am particularly pleased to welcome the representatives of the old Massachusetts regiment, and I hope they will derive much pleasure from their visit."

The inspection occurred at an early hour as the King had arranged to visit the city of Winchester in order to reopen the cathedral, the foundations of which have undergone alterations.

The Boston artillerymen marched with their London comrades, from the headquarters of the Honorable Artillery Company in Finsbury, under the command of Captain Francis H. Appleton and the Karl of Denbigh, by way of the Embankment. A large number of relatives and friends of the officers and men were present in the grounds of Buckingham Palace, during the review. The Queen and Princess Mary watched the ceremony from a palace window. The Boston artillerymen, carrying the Stars and Stripes and the regimental colors, led the march past.

At the conclusion of the inspection, the King was photographed with the Boston artillerymen and Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador, who sat at his majesty's left.

King George spoke to each of the Boston men individually, congratulating them on their appearance and welcoming them to England.

The detachment left London this afternoon for a Continental tour, going by way of Dover and Calais for Paris, where they will spend three days. Saturday and Sunday they will be at Lucerne taking an excursion to the top of Rigi or Pilitus, and Monday they go to Heidelberg.

FILE PETITION FOR RECALL OF BREEN

LAWRENCE, July 15.—A petition asking for the recall of School Committeeman James J. Breen was filed today with City Clerk Edward J. Wade. The petition was circulated by the ministers' association and the Central Labor Union. It asked for the recall of Breen, who had been found guilty of planting dynamite during the recent textile strike. He was fined $300. The paper is said to contain more than the necessary 2500 names needed in a case of this kind.

3 FROM BOSTON IN BIG WRECK

Miss Ethel Oakes, who was returning from Colorado to New England, and who was badly hurt in the wreck on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad at Western Springs, a suburb of Chicago, when thirteen were killed and a score hurt, told her story of the wreck to an AMERICAN reporter in Chicago today.

Miss Oakes has three brothers in Boston—Fulton D. Oakes, Owen F. Oakes and Margin E. Oakes—who are identified with the Oakes Knitting Mills of West Roxbury. She was coming to Boston to visit them.

Warren P. Dudley of Belmont, secretary of the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission, and Mrs. Dudley, were also hurt. Mr. and Mrs. Dudley are in the St. Anthony Hospital in Chicago and Miss Oakes is at St. Luke's Hospital. Mrs. Dudley was bruised. Mr. Dudley suffered a fracture to the right leg and Miss Oakes' collarbone was broken. This is Miss Oakes' story:

"I had dressed early and the conductor and I were sitting in one of the empty back seats. All of a sudden there came an awful bang and a shock that lurched us both out of our seats and up against the seat in front of us.

"Glass was showered on us from the broken windows and my head was slightly cut in several places. At the same time the car was flung over on one side—the side we were sitting on—and both the conductor and I tumbled.

"We started to crawl to our feet and I heard many cries. My mind was all a whirl and I hardly remember anything after that. All I know is that the conductor lifted me up so that I could crawl through the window overhead.

"The first thing that I heard when I got outside was that the engineer had been killed. I heard continued cries for help. Then my nerve deserted me and I turned away and never looked at it again.

A jury has been impanelled to investigate the wreck today.

Railroad officials refused to fix the blame until after the wreck had been investigated thoroughly. Mrs. F. A. Wilcox, who was in charge of the tower from which the block signals were operated, said she was certain the block was thrown against both trains. She collapsed after the accident and is still in a highly nervous condition. She said:

"After thinking the whole affair over, I have decided that I was not in any way to blame for the accident. I know that the blocks were set against the train. It was sure I that erred.

"Three trains instead of two passed the signals in violation of all rules, although it may have been that the engineers did not see the boards.

'Bat' Nelson Weds Countess Wins De Beaufort's Ex-Wife

FORMER COUNTESS, NOW MRS. NELSON, AND PUGILIST

CHICAGO, July 15.—Count Jaques Alexander Albert L. von Moorip de Beaufort ground his teeth when he picked up his morning paper today.

On the front page appeared a headline like this:

Countess Weds
Bat" Nelson

The Count's startled eyes glanced down the columns. What he read was that a pretty well substantiated rumor has it, his ex-wife, who, when she secured a divorce on the grounds of cruelty, was allowed to resume her name of Irma Kilgallen, has married Oscar Matthew (Battling Nelson, the Hegewisch farmer and ex-champion lightweight boxer of the world.

"I knew it all the time," cried the Count.

Neither Nelson's family, nor Martin H. Kilgallen, father of the former countess, would admit the rumor's truth. They professed no surprise, however, and the general comment was:

"Well, if may be true—"

A Ripping Fine Girl.

Nelson met Miss Kilgallen in Europe shortly before her marriage to de Beaufort in 1906. She thought him "splendid." He declared the lovely Chicago girl was a "ripping fine girl."

It has been reported of late in Chicago that Nelson was a frequent caller at "Castle Kilgallen" on Michigan boulevard, and it is also said that Miss Kilgallen has visited the farm in Hegewich. Neither of the two pricipals in this latest chapter in the de Beaufort drama could be located.

The "Count" had a very stormy career as a husband. Kilgallen's own story of his daughter's matrimony has become the classic on the subject. He said:

"The Count, after visiting a while, expressed a desire to go to work," said Mr. Kilgallen. "I was pleased with the idea, and offered to have him taught the steel business. I found a berth for him, and there was always some excuse. 'Wait till next week,' he would say. He never did go to work, though he posed for some pictures in a workingman's clothes. He finally showed his true colors by declaring that it was beneath the dignity of a gentleman to do any work.

$300 a Month Pocket Cash.

"I then made him an allowance of $300 a month for pocket money and his personal expenses. My daughter has her own allowance and I paid all the bills. My wife and daughter went to Hot Springs, Ark., and I had trouble with the Count's tampering with my mail. He actually got away with some letters, and I never found out just what they contained.

"The first real trouble between the Count and my daughter came at Hot Springs, at the Arlington Hotel. He lost some $2500 at the Southern Club and was threatening suit to get it back. My daughter tried to put an end to his quarreling, which was humiliating her. Then he struck her for the first time. One of the maids called the hotel detective, fearing the Count was going to kill Irma.

"He threatened, while they were at Hot Springs, to kill her if she did not sign her name to the bottom of a blank sheet of paper. We never found out what he intended to write above the signature.

"It was in April last that my daughter first decided that she could no longer live with her husband. She secured from him by leaving the house through the garage and the alley. I sent her to the home of a friend on the North Side. That night the Count begged hard to be taken back, and finally arranged for a conference at the Hotel La Salle the next day.

"My daughter still refused to break with him but my wife is a church woman, does not like divorce, and thought she could handle the situation so that the young people would be happy. A truce was patched up and the Count came back.

"My daughter's manner of dress did not suit him. He had wonderful ideas about economizing, tried to dictate styles and color schemes. Mme. White finally threw him out of her establishment because of interference. He had the same trouble at Bartletts and was thrown out. He evidently admired dressmakers' details like a woman.

"It was not long until we received a dispatch that the Count had fallen from his horse in New York, had concussion of the brain and was constantly calling for the Countess. The message was signed 'Dr. Landis,' and my daughter was much worried. We hastened East and found him semi-conscious in his apartment. I found that he had been seen on the street two hours after newspapers had the story of his accident.

"There was not a mark on him and Dr. Landis said he had sent no telegram. I handled him off to a private hospital against his protest and brought my daughter home.

for women England was first, Germany second and Austria third.

Adlers, of Sweden, took the high diving event with 369 points; Zorner, of Germany was second with 363, and Bloogren, of Sweden, third with 347 points. America failed to show.

James Thorpe of the Carlisle Indian School added 3 more points to America's score by winning the Decathlon. Wieslander, of Sweden, was second and Lomberg, of Sweden, third.

The victory of the American duplicating as it did his triumph in the pentathlon events on the occasion for another wild outburst from the American sport. Olympic aviators regarded this as a real American victory, the victor being one of the aborigines of the land of the stars and stripes.

Platt Adams, of the New York A. C., was the only American who had a chance in the final of the hop-skip-and-jump in the decathlon. This event was won by Lindblom, of Sweden; Aberg, of Sweden, was second and Almed, of Sweden, was third. America was fourth.

Dies After Marathon.

Lazaro, a Portuguese entrant in yesterday's Marathon race, died today from the effects of his long run. Lazaro dropped out seven miles from the finish, after running more than seventeen miles. Following an official investigation his death was attributed to heart failure induced by over exertion and sunstroke. He had not trained properly. Lazaro was examined by a physician before the contest, and was passed.

Old Glory was represented by an invincible quartet in the 1,000-metre relay. Meredith, the schoolboy marvel, and Reidpath had been stopping their claims at old records since the meet began. While it was accepted as a foregone conclusion that the Yankee team would win, the enthusiasm of the American spectators was not diminished. From start to tape the Americans held the lead, while the runners representing great Britain, Hungary and France tried in vain to overcome their advantage.

The American swimmers made a gallant try in the 800 metre relay swimming race, but could not out-distance their opponents from the Antipodes. Of the Yankee swimmers, Kahanamoku, the Hawaiian, did the best work. McGillivray of the Illinois A. C. got a good lead but H. J. Hebner of the Illinois A. C. was beaten. Kenneth Huszch, of the Chicago A. A., maintained to hold his own, but could not gain on his opponent. The Hawaiian gained on his competitor, but not enough to wrest the victory from the Australian.

U. S. Loses Cross-Country.

Finland and Sweden swept the boards in the 8,000-metre cross-country run. First place went to H. Kolehmainen of Finland, while Anderson and Ike of Sweden finished second and third.

The bad feeling that has characterized the swimming races since the start of the games came to a climax today. While Eric Bergvall, president of the Olympic swimming committee, was refereeing a water polo game between the teams of Belgium and Austria, one of the Belgian players took exception to a ruling and struck Bergvall in the face. The referee immediately disqualified the Belgian player.

Baron Coubert, in charge of the Olympic program, announced today that at the request of the New York Athletic boxing commission the committee would put boxing on the programs for future Olympiads whenever practicable. Secretary Charles Harvey of the New York State boxing commission came here and appeared before the committee in behalf of that branch of sport.

The Summary.

Following are the summaries of today's events in the Olympic games:

1,000-metre relay race—First, America (Shepard, Dooling, Meredith and Reidpath); second, France; third, Great Britain. Time—2m. 16⅘.

800-metre swimming relay race—First, Australia; second, America (McGillivray, Hebner, Kahanamoku, Huszch); third, Great Britain. Time—10m. 11⅗.

High diving—First, Sweden (Adlerz), 369 points; second, Germany, 363 points; third, Sweden (Bloogren), 347 points.

400-metre swimming team race for women, free style—First, England; second, Germany; third, Austria. Time—5m. 55⅘.

Decathalon, lots, skip and hop—First, Lindblom, Sweden, 7,707 points; second, Wieslander, Sweden, 7,473 points; third, Lomberg, Sweden, 7,412 points; distance, 48.42 feet.

Decathalon, discus—First, James Thorpe, Carlisle Indians, 8,412 points; second, Wieslander, Sweden, 7,724 points; third, Lomberg, Sweden, 7,413 points.

Cross-country race, 8,000 metres—First, H. Kolehmainen, Finland; second, Anderson, Sweden; third, Ike, Sweden. Time—48m. 12⅕.

ations. They have been trying for years to get this arrangement, and that is the fundamental cause of this strike."

The following companies are affected: Acushnet (two mills), Booth, Bristol, Dartmouth (three mills), Gosnold, Grinnell, Hathaway (two mills), Page, Pierce Manufacturing Company, Pierce Brothers, Potomska and Wamsutta (six mills).

The 14,000 strikers draw an aggregate of more than $190,000 a week pay.

The strike tied up the weaving department of the mills in the Potomska mill, where 600 are regularly employed, twelve went to work today. In one of the Dartmouth mills, usually employing a thousand, ten went in.

Manufacturers Split.

There is a split in the Manufacturers' Association, which formerly has presented a solid front against the operatives. The Nefld, Nashawena, Taber and New Bedford Cotton mills granted the strikers' demands and abolished the grading system. There is no strike in these mills.

The strike followed votes of the New Bedford Weavers' Union, and of the I. W. W. The I. W. W. and the United Textile Workers are aligned side by side in the struggle.

The Loom Fixers' Union voted to indorse the action of the weavers, and voted also to strike independently in the Dartmouth Mills, on grievances of their own.

The New Bedford authorities have placed rigorous weapons to prevent disorder. Chief Henry W. Mason has issued orders that policemen will be allowed no days off or vacations while the trouble lasts, and extra guards were on hand at each mill.

Francis P. Duffy is secretary of the Weavers' Union. He will be largely in charge of the strike.

The trouble in the mills follows the posting of grading notices on many of the plants. The grading system, so called, is a plan under which weavers receive only 69 per cent. as much for goods ranked as second class as they do for goods ranked first class.

Strike Votes Taken.

A meeting of the Loomfixers' Union held in Labor Temple was attended by more than 400 members. The question of the union's own grievances were first considered. They were:

Overworking the loomfixers' making the loomfixers run too many looms; laying off men and piecing the work on other men, breaking agreement made with the Loomfixers' Union relative to the number of looms per section.

It was voted unanimously to go into the mill, get their tools, and remain out until they are granted concessions. This action was backed up by the whole body. Then the indorsement of the weavers' strike was discussed, and it was voted to come out with the weavers.

It was stated that the action of the loomfixers would not involve them in any difficulty with the United Textile Workers, with which they are affiliated, for it had been asked last week to have the sanction of the national body for permission to strike.

At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Industrial Workers of the World, in Peden's Hall, it was voted unanimously to go on strike. This affects about 1,200 I. W. W. workers in the different mills.

Urges United Action.

As to the union's reason for declaring a general strike against all the mills in the city, Mr. Parkinson said:

"We believe that united action is the only way in which the strike can be made a success and the I. W. W. has taken on record to that effect."

At the meeting, a committee of four was appointed to confer with the various textile unions and see if they were all agreed to standstogether for a general strike, "to fight for one issue, victory or defeat," was the way the secretary expressed it.

The I. W. W. meeting was preceded by mass meetings held in the public hall, and the hall was far too small to accommodate the crowd that thronged to the place. Every seat and standing space filled, and about 200 more crowded the aisles.

There are eight mills in the city where the objectionable practices either have been removed or were not posted. They employ a total of 7,000 operatives, about one-third of the city's mill workers.

Notices announcing the proposed new system of grading were posted early last week and a few days later the weavers notified the mill agents and owners that the system would not be satisfactory and that the looms were not removed by noon Saturday the weavers would not return to work Monday.

In several of the mills the notices were removed forthwith, but those mills represented in the Manufacturers' Association allowed them to remain and Saturday the association threw down the gauntlet by voting not to remove them.

Langshaw Raps Duffy.

In a statement issued Walter H. Langshaw, agent of the Dartmouth Mill, whom Secretary Duffy of the Weavers' Union publicly said at the union meetings "is the man we are going to get," says:

"The meetings at the North and South Ends totaled, according to report, 850. Many of these were not weavers. Few, if any, were weavers, and approximately over half of the weavers are women.

"The meetings are conducted like packed caucuses. Any one who desires to express a different sentiment than that of officials and collectors is abused or howled out.

"No balloting-bulldozing and intimidation is the process.

"The Australian system would do wonders and State inspection to give the actual facts would open the eyes of the public. The State should also appoint custodians of the funds and contributions should be delivered direct to them. This method, combined with putting the union officials on strike pay, would work wonders.

IMPEACHMENT CASE IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Members of the United States Senate today listened to the formal presentation by members of the House of Representatives of the thirteen articles of impeachment found against Robert W. Archbald, judge of the United States Circuit Court, designated to the Commerce Court.

At 12:37 o'clock the business of the Senate was interrupted as Representative Clayton, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, attended by Representatives Webb, Norris, Sterling, Foster, Floyd Davis and Hiwiant, preceded by the sergeant-at-arms, entered the chamber.

They stod in front of the President's desk while the clerk announced their mission.

Then Representative Clayton said:

"Mr. President, managers on the part of the House of Representatives are here represent and ready to present the articles of impeachment which have been found by the House of Representatives against Robert W. Archbald, Circuit Judge of the United States and designated Judge of the Commerce Court of the United States."

Representative Clayton then read to the Senate the House resolution calling for the impeachment.

LYNN BURGLAR REAL RAFFLES

Raffles in real life—and in Lynn. A real "gentleman burglar," who chats pleasantly as he robs, paid two calls in the "wee sma' hours" of the morning, and now the Lynn police are very, very busy.

Fred L. Perkins, a master plumber, living on Greenwood Terrace, Lynn, and John Thompson, a Lynn shoe manufacturer, were the victims. The burglar gathered about $150 in cash, a few trinkets, and a pair of Mr. Perkins' trousers. The police have recovered the trousers.

The burglar refused to take a diamond ring from Mrs. Mabel L. Newton, whom he had awakened while he was prowling about her room in Mr. Perkins' house.

"I'm a gentleman," he assured her, "and I don't want your ring"—she was nervously fingering it at the time—"just be quiet and everything will be all right. If you make any noise it might result in someone noticing the police which would be embarrassing to me."

I'm a Gentleman.

He calmly continued his work, as he left, he said:

"I am going out now. I have shown you that I am a gentleman, and I want you to show me similar consideration. I have this," showing his revolver, "but I don't want to use it."

The burglar had visited Mr. Perkins' room first, and stole his trousers and vest without awakening either Perkins or his wife. He then went to the dining room, where he wound a napkin around his face before ascending to the room where Mrs. Newton and her baby lay asleep.

As he left her room, Mrs. Newton remained silent. Her mother, hearing the burglar, thought Mrs. Newton was getting something for the baby.

"What's the matter, Mabel?" she called.

Mabel didn't answer, but the burglar stubbed his toe.

"D——" Said the Burglar.

"D——," he said, forgetting he was a gentleman burglar.

Mr. Perkins awoke. He investigated and found that his trousers were gone—Also $30 in cash. Also his vest.

He yelled for the police.

The police were still investigating, when, an hour later, the burglar called at the home of John Thompson, a Lynn shoe manufacturer, whom he awakened.

"There is no need of making any noise," said the burglar to Mr. Thompson. "I don't want your check books or jewelry, only a little cash."

"I have no money," Mr. Thompson told the burglar, "but I have nice big revolver right under my pillow."

"Quit you're bidding," advised the burglar, briefly, turning his back on Thompson and extracting $50 in cash from his purse.

Mrs. Newton said afterward she was not the least bit afraid.

"He was so polite," she said.

"He had his nerve with him," is Thompson's tribute.

Miss Barnes' Prima Donna Diet

Brookline Girl Paris Hostess

ETHEL BARNES, ON ANTI-FAT CAMPAIGN IN PARIS

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

PARIS, July 15.—If you want to reduce weight come to Paris. It is impossible to stay fat in France. Come, suffering sisters, give up health belts and pills and diets, and come to France.

"You can't get a square meal in Paris to save your life," declares Miss Ethel Barnes, the proprietress of the French anti-fat theory.

Miss Barnes comes from Brookline, Mass. She was a pupil of the New England Conservatory School of Opera last season and this year she is to be a full fledged prima donna.

Miss Barnes is as pretty as a picture and her figure is really opulent. In fact, it was almost plump when she set sail from Boston.

"I promised faithfully when I joined the Boston Opera Company that I would get thin," explained Miss Barnes. "I didn't in the least know how I was going to do it, but I needn't have worried. A Paris pension will do it.

"It is difficult to get enough to eat in Paris. It is impossible to get a full meal; nobody could possibly eat too much.

Only a Shadow Now.

"And the worst of it is you can't go out and get three or four ice cream sodas between meals, and you can't eat a couple of pounds of candy because the candy they have over there isn't any good.

The conversation occurred at the Pension, where Miss Barnes and her chaperon are boarding. It is out Passy way, which as everybody doesn't know, is between the Eiffel Tower and the Bois de Boulogne.

Miss Barnes is one of the few American girls who ever come to Europe to study music accompanied by a chaperon, and she was by way of being impounder with the others until it was discovered that by virtue of the chaperon she could inhabit a little pavilion in the garden of the Pension, where it didn't matter how much noise one made, nor how many called at one time.

On this particular afternoon Miss Barnes was serving tea. She had shrunk to a shadow of her former self and she complained that her clothes felt as if they ought to be worn by somebody else, but she looked very pretty and her voice was unimpaired.

Everybody on a Diet.

"In Paris everybody is on a diet," declared the young singer. "You arise in the morning and what do you have to eat? What do you eat, I ask you?" she demanded tragically. "A cup of coffee and a piece of bread. Isn't that a fine meal for a healthy American?

"At noon comes dejeuner, which consists of three or four tiny kinds of food. Dinner doesn't come until seven and it is a lot of dishes with very little on them. You always arise hungry. If that isn't a diet, what is it?

"You also have tea," I suggested.

"Why don't you drink yours? Well, I don't like it either. However I miss the ice cream sodas the most.

"What roles are you studying for the coming season?

"I am studying the mechanical doll in 'Tales of Hoffmann,' and important parts in Louise, Carmen and 'Foret Bleue.' Besides I have a lot of 'My Lord the Carriage is Waiting,' parts," she added, frankly. "Don't you want to see my house?"

It was a doll's house, this garden pavilion, the whole front was of glass screened by lace curtains, and the window was also the door.

In Cosey Quarters.

The living room contained a piano, sofa and other furnishings, and from it opened a room with a real bath tub in it. In France it is a sign of needless affluence to have a private bath, and Miss Barnes took great pride in displaying her tub.

A screen in one corner of the living room hid a spiral staircase which led up to the chamber.

One of the waggish students had stolen a sign from a railroad train which read, "Dames Seules," and meant reserved for ladies traveling alone, and pasted it upon the window of the pavilion.

Miss Barnes and five other Boston girls now in Paris and attached to the Boston Opera Company that I would get thin," explained Miss Barnes. "I didn't in the least know how I was going to do it, but I needn't have worried. A Paris pension will do it.

GAMBLING GOES ON AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, July 15.—Though a committee appointed by six betterment societies is about to report that gambling is on the decrease, an investigation by reporters shows gamblers with big bank rolls have all the opportunity they desire to be separated from their money.

The luxurious Nautilus Club, once owned by Richard A. Canfield, is doing business at the old stand. The club is on Bath road, just off Bellevue avenue. This club is managed by Dave Bucklin and Billy Coe, both of whom are well known in New York. Both worked for Canfield. They are regarded as wealthy.

Bucklin looks after the brokerage business from the Bellevue avenue branch office of a Boston brokerage firm. It is somewhat difficult to gain entrance to the Nautilus Club, and "spees" and spies are not of the right sort are barred. But once you get in things accommodate themselves to your wishes. In a big salon furnished with exquisite good taste, the decorations for which were supplied by one of the biggest and most expensive firms in New York, stand three roulette wheels and two faro layouts. There is a table for English hazard, a comparatively new way to separate you from your money, that is now to play-ers in these parts.

The women crusaders blame Mayor Boyle for not enforcing the law.

"There is just one thing that Mayor Boyle fears, and that is the recall," declared Miss Harriet E. Thomas. As secretary of the Charity Organizations Society and member of the Joint Reform Committee, Miss Thomas speaks for a strong contingent of wealthy women, who are secretly pressing the work of purifying the seashore resort.

"The Mayor's ideas of what laws should be enforced and what crimes should be winked at are simply amazing. We questioned the good order agent as her eyes snapped. "But our joint committee is now so strongly representative of the best people here that we expect to compel him to serve the city or get out.

PASTOR TELLS HOW TO DISCOVER WHEN YOU ARE IN LOVE

CHICAGO, July 15.—Hereafter the young people who attend the Woodlawn Methodist Church will know when they are in love with each other. W. B. Norton, pastor, told them how and how to find out when you're caught it, in a sermon, and ended by laying down four tests. Here are the tests:

First, you care not for wealth, position, things material. You worship only the person.

Second, you are intensely interested even in the tiny things concerning the beloved.

Third, you find joy in service, no matter how affected.

Fourth, you feel pain at separation.

GOVERNOR BLEASE CALLS NAMES, GETS READY TO SHOOT

AUGUSTA, July 15.—Governor Blease of South Carolina, raging at the legislative investigation of his official conduct, says Governor Brown of Georgia "hasn't sense enough to raise watermelons." As for the probing committee, they are "gutersnipes." Regarding Judge Jones, who wants Blease's seat as Governor, he says: "During the war he and his people were in the bulrushes like Moses, and we couldn't tell 'em out."

Governor Blease invites anybody who doesn't like what he says about them to shoot it out with him.

ITALIAN ARMY WINS A GREAT VICTORY

ROME, July 15.—General Carloni, in a dispatch, says that the whole division under his command attacked and captured 8th July at dawn after six hours fierce engagement with large Turkish forces from Magdalie and Zoara, to the east of Tripoli. The Turks, according to the dispatch, suffered enormous losses and are now in full retreat.

ADVENTISTS SHOW MEMBERSHIP GAIN

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The forty-ninth annual report of the Seventh Day Adventists, issued today by Secretary H. Lyon Rogers, announces that the denomination which observes Saturday as the Sabbath has gained 4.26 per cent. during 1911. The total number of communicants throughout the world is 108,375. Six per cent. of these being in the United States and 40 per cent. in other countries.

THE SODA CLERK

By MORTON BIRGE.

Whenever I am anxious to behold a chap at work
I stand and watch the movement of the soda fountain clerk.
Especially in Summer when the temperature is high,
And people swarm up to him and impetuously cry:

"Gimme a choc'lit sody—draw me a lemon lime—
Gee, but this dump is crowded—been here an awful time—
Couple o' sassaperillas—str'ob'ry collig ice—
Say, on the level, Lizzie, isn't vermiller nice—
Got enny maple sollied—here you are, over here—
No, I don't want no banana, told you I sald root beer—
Whadd'l y'have, try coffee—say, this ain't orangeade,
Don't talk to me, young feller—I know how the drink is made."

And thus they keep on coming, with insistent, brisk demand
The soda clerk keeps moving, as he works with either hand.
He's fast enough in Winter, but the Summer makes him fly,
It's then he demonstrates the hand is faster than the eye.

Last Dollar Paid by Astor Goes to Titanic Memorial

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The last debt paid by Colonel John Jacob Astor, a victim of the Titanic disaster, will help to build the great memorial in Washington to the men who died on the ill-fated liner.

Mrs. Archibald Forbes, a New York social leader, is the woman to whom the debt was paid. Her letter, forwarded to Mrs. John Hays Hammond by Mrs. Thomas J. O'Brien, wife of the American Ambassador at Rome, enclosed a dollar bill that was handed to her by Colonel Astor when the party of which they were members settled up for the last bridge game played in the social saloon before the Titanic sank off the Newfoundland Banks.

Mrs. Forbes said that when Colonel Astor handed over the dollar, the only money she ever won at cards, he made a jesting remark about the luck of beginners.

OGDEN WOOD ILL.

PARIS, July 15.—Ogden Wood, dean of the American artists in Paris, is dangerously ill of gastric trouble.

MASCAGNI AND GIRL VANISH

PARIS, July 15.—Mascagni, the noted composer, reported stabbed by his wife in a quarrel over a chorus girl, has disappeared. And at the same time there is no trace of the little stage beauty who is supposed to be with him.

Three days ago Mascagni went to Milan, where he saw his daughter. He appeared openly with her in the streets there, making his presence known in order to convince his wife that he was in Italy. That evening he left Milan for Paris.

While here Mascagni was asked by a close friend, one of the three persons who knew of his presence in this city, to make a statement, but the composer declined to do so, as he did not wish his wife to know that he then was in Paris.

He did not go to Arcachon to see D'Annunzio, as was reported. He told friends that he had no intention of going there, although he and D'Annunzio are collaborating on an opera.

If Mascagni's wife has followed him here she has not revealed herself.

In the present domestic difficulty the daughter, Emmy, and one of the two sons side with Mascagni, while the other son takes his mother's part.

TRACE EXETER MAN BY LETTER

EXETER, N. H., July 15.—Mrs. Walter C. Cleveland, whose husband's strange disappearance has puzzled the community, is reported to have received a letter from him asking her to dispose of his personal property. She is still at her home here with her daughter.

Le Burton G. Cilley, whose wife has left town, is with relatives in Kingston Plains. He appears to be on the verge of a nervous collapse.

"If there was ever any one in the world whom I thought was straight and upright, it was Walter Cleveland," remarked one of his old teachers. "He showed grit and ability and worked his way through high school and college."

Cleveland was so well known and liked in Exeter and had such a good record that his friends are dumfounded by his disappearance.

Last Tuesday afternoon, the neighbors say, Mr. and Mrs. Cilley had words, following which Mr. Cilley took the children to his relatives in Kingston Plains, leaving his wife at home. On the same afternoon Mr. Cleveland took his wife and daughter to Haverhill to visit some of her relatives. She was to stay all night with them.

The next day it was discovered that Mrs. Cilley had disappeared. The two families lived together in the same house, the Cleavelands occupying the lower floor and the Cilleys the upper floor. Cleveland was last heard from in Portsmouth.

Colonel Rufus H. Elwell, a neighbor and friend of Mrs. Cleveland, is making a search for whatever property Cleveland may have left.

HOTELS PLAN LONG MOUNTAINS SEASON

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., July 15.—Benjamin V. Campbell, vice president in charge of the operation of the New Haven road, made a flying trip here in connection, it is understood, with proposed late Fall train service to the mountains, to bring the resorts in the night they have this year inaugurated to extend their season.

SAVE DRESSMAKER AT PITTSFIELD FIRE

PITTSFIELD, July 15.—Mrs. Evelyn Picard, a dressmaker, was rescued from the third story of the Wright block, North street, in a stubborn fire which destroyed the restaurant of Ernest Hicks and the variety store of Harry Meyer on the ground floor.

FARMERS FEAR JAIL BREAKER

PORTLAND, July 15.—The farmers of their families in the vicinity of this city are in fear of attack by one of five who broke jail here last Thursday night. One, Harry Brown, alias Harry Willis, was captured Saturday.

The other four are at large and it is believed they have been able to arm themselves. The sons of Stephen W. Shaford at Gorham was broken into and guns and knives were stolen. It is believed this was the work of the four desperadoes.

Sheriff Louis W. Moulton, with a force of deputies, assisted by volunteers, is searching the woods for the convicts. It is believed the leader is Dennis Mather of Westbrook, Me., who is well acquainted with the country. His companions are Harry Cooney of Portland, Edward Parks of Boston and Felix Turcotte of Portland.

The men were arrested for breaking and entering and for assault. They got out of jail by getting into an uncompleted cell and cutting a hole through the ceiling to a room from which they reached the roof.

REPORT MANY DEAD IN FLOODS

DENVER, Colo., July 15.—Several hundred men, women and children are homeless, a number of deaths are rumored and $1,500,000 worth of property is in ruins here as the result of a cloudburst which resulted in the overflow of the shallow bed of Cherry Creek through this city, from 10 o'clock until midnight last night.

The big City Auditorium today is a refuge camp. At dawn 500 of the homeless were gathered there and are being fed by the city. Twenty-five children from six months to six years old, whose parents may have been lost, are in the care of the police matron.

After directing relief and rescue work all night, Mayor Arnold organized relief parties at dawn to begin the search of the course of the flood, which is a trail of wrecked dwellings and other debris heaped in the current of the South Platte River. The Chamber of Commerce has opened a relief subscription.

1,000 KILLED AND IMMENSE PROPERTY LOSS IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, July 15.—A thousand persons have been killed and property loss amounting to millions has resulted from floods in the state of Guanajuato, according to advices received here today.

Cloudbursts throughout the region carried rivers out of their courses, inundated hundreds of acres of farming land, washing out crops and carrying away farm houses and outbuildings, and partially destroyed the cities of Salamanca and Celaya.

More than 10,000 square miles of country, mostly a farming section, have been affected by the floods.

The cloudburst was the most severe of a number that have visited this section in the past few months. The rain fell in such torrents that the valley of the Santiago was covered to a depth of several feet.

HEAVY DAMAGE BY ELECTRIC STORM AT NARRAGANSETT PIER

NARRAGANSETT PIER, July 15.—Narragansett Pier was the very centre of a terrific electrical storm which swept southern Rhode Island, doing thousands of dollars worth of damage.

The buildings of the pier and the cottages about the famous resort escaped injury, although lightning flashes followed so closely after each other as to seem almost continuous. Only one bolt is known to have struck a building in this section. That was in the lawn between the Gladstone and Larchmont hotels. The roof was ripped up and guests on the verandas of the two hotels were frightened, but no one was injured.

The home of Charles Partelow in Ashaway was struck and the chimney and part of the furnishings were demolished.

A number of Boston people were among those who were hurrying to shelter when the storm swept down on Narragansett. They included Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Haywood, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Hawes, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Potter of Brookline, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Tanyer and Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Ames.

STILL SEEK HEAD IN RIVER MYSTERY

WOONSOCKET, July 15.—The Woonsocket police are still pursuing a vigorous secret search for the head missing from the woman's body found two weeks ago in Blackstone River. It became known today that patrolmen passed some time searching the woods in the locality of Sylvester Pond and in dragging the pond. This is a locality to which attention had not been paid heretofore. The body has been identified as that of Angela Parmentier-Delmarle, and Henry Desloyra is held for the murder.

VAN HISE'S STAND PUZZLES MOOSE

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 15.—Whether Charles Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin, is for him or against him is the question that looms largest on the Bull Moose's horizon today.

He even admits he doesn't know.

"I don't know whether he's for me or not," said Colonel Roosevelt.

"Professor Van Hise is very much interested in the economic side of the campaign, and I discussed it with him.

"So far as I know he is not for any individual, but simply interested in a number of problems which have been raised."

The question—which carries with it the question of whether or not the colonel is to have the support of Senator La Follette and his friends, loomed up after a visit to the colonel of Professor Van Hise and Harry Cochems, who led the Wisconsin delegation at the progressive National convention in Chicago and realigned because he said Senator La Follette was determined to bolt Roosevelt at all costs.

Colonel Roosevelt was asked if he had heard that Van Hise had called upon Governor Wilson, the nominee of the Democrats.

"Yes, I know all about that," replied the colonel, with a smile.

Mr. Cochems told Mr. Roosevelt that the situation was more favorable at present and that he expects the progressives from Wisconsin to stand firmly with the colonel now that La Follette is no longer a factor. The greater part of the day was spent by Colonel Roosevelt in revising his Statement of Principles, which he is to present at the National Progressive convention at Chicago. The Colonel stated that while he intends to make his flying trip through the West, he is as yet undecided as to the date. The trip will include those States where primaries are held.

It can be stated positively that Colonel Roosevelt hoped to avoid this trip, but his final judgment is that it is necessary. He will speak in a friendly territory in Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska. His managers tell him that there is no doubt that the primary vote will be in his favor, and he will thus be enabled to appear at the convention with three new victories to support the third party.

"SAIL FROM BOSTON," TITLE OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PAMPHLET

A novel step to boom the port of Boston is the Chamber of Commerce's newest plan, the circulation of a little pamphlet entitled "Sail from Boston," and containing reasons why the advice contained in the title should be followed.

The leaflet, the circulation of which is to be one of the chief activities of the chamber this Summer, points out that ever since that day in July, 1840, when the first Cunarder, the side-wheeler Britannic, from Liverpool, docked at Boston, the first port of New England has offered particular advantages to transatlantic travelers.

The approaches to the city by the great railroad systems are described, as are also the hotel facilities within the city limits, and the park system and other points of interest.

TAX RATE REMAINS $12 AT COHASSET

COHASSET, July 15.—The tax rate of Cohasset this year will be the same as last year, $12 per thousand, notwithstanding the town will raise more than $25,000 above last year's appropriation. The debt is being rapidly reduced $17,000, being paid off this year, and it is expected that in two years the town will be free of debt. The tax rate is then expected to go back below $10.

BELMONT TO TELL OF CAMPAIGN FUND

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 15.—August Belmont tomorrow will testify before the sub-committee of the Senate committee investigating the campaign expenditures of 1904 and 1908. Mr. Belmont's testimony is expected to materially supplement the facts given the committee by Thomas Taggart.

Services for Veteran Motorman Held Today at St. Peter's Church.

One thousand L Union men on strike today attended the funeral of Dennis Power, an honorary member, who had been a motorman for twenty years. At St. Peter's Church, Meeting House Hill, Superintendent Frank I. Wilkins and Inspectors Potter and McCool of the Boston Elevated Company were at the church. The union members were in uniform and wore white gloves. They had removed the gold and silver bands about their hats.

The procession of employes formed at the late home of Power, No. 1 Mt. Ida terrace. They marched around Eaton square and into the church, where they formed an aisle through which the casket was carried.

A requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Michael J. Darby. The bearers were D. Curtin, P. Grace, F. B. Herrigan, R. L. French, William Leahey and John Reid.

The burial was at St. Joseph's Cemetery in West Roxbury. The union men marched ahead of the hearse as far as Harvard street and Blue Hill avenue, where they dispersed.

The Boston Elevated strikers will hold a mass meeting this evening in Mattapan square, one of several to be held this week. Tomorrow evening there will be a meeting at Vine Street Church, Roxbury, and on Wednesday evening, there will be a meeting in Fleming Hall, Roxbury. A mass meeting will be held in the Arena on Thursday night, to which all union men and sympathizers are invited. The speakers expected at the several meetings are J. J. Attridge, president of the Boston City Council; Alderman M. M. O'Connor of Cambridge; James Duncan, first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor; Frank McCarthy, president of the Boston Central Labor Union; Fred J. Koreland, James H. Vahey, Arthur F. Hudd, A. J. Hyslett, Jennie McNulty, and the Rev. E. E. Marsh of Charlestown.

SHOE MEN ON TRIP TO BEVERLY TODAY; VISIT UNITED SHOE PLANT

Many of the shoe and leather men in Boston today joined in an expedition to Beverly to inspect the United Shoe Machinery Company's plant.

The trip was made by automobile. The guests arrived in Beverly about 1 o'clock. On arrival at the United Shoe Machinery Company's country club grounds luncheon was served in the club house, music being furnished by the company's band. Following there was a two hours' inspection of the great plant, where four or five thousand workmen are employed.

BOY ARRESTED FOR $500,000 LARCENY

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 15.—Joseph Kilian, sixteen years old, who stole $500,000 in checks and $225 in currency from the United Clear Company of New York city and later tossed the checks into the street in Albany, was arrested early today in the Central Railroad station when waiting for a train to take him to Kansas City, Kilian, who arrested, gave the name of Joseph McCarthy, and said the money in his possession was stolen from his father, who lived in Jersey City. Later the authorities solved the theft of the checks and money from the clear company.

TO PROVE DIABETES CURABLE

On May 6th, 1912, the San Francisco Examiner and Bulletin published this offer:

"To show that the preparation, containing opium, which locks up secretions, and so much in Diabetes (Sodden) is wrong and that Pulton's Diabetic Compound, which promotes secretion, is right, we will say that if four physicians of good standing in this city will send us a Diabetic between fifty and seventy years of age, strong enough to call at our office, we will cure the Diabetic* and with this mild infusion will attempt to return him in sixty days with half of the sugar eliminated and specific gravity halfway back to the normal, with thirst and symptoms largely reduced and on the road to recovery. If we fail we will publish the fact; if we succeed the physicians to acknowledge it.

Rice-Jarman Drug Stores are agents for Pulton's Diabetic Compound. Ask for pamphlet or write to John J. Fulton Company, San Francisco.

*Where patients are addicted to Codein (tablets opium), it is often necessary to give a two-shill forming sedative for a while.

LORIMER SEEKS A VINDICATION

WASHINGTON, July 15.—William Lorimer, whose seat as a Senator from Illinois was yesterday declared vacant by the United States Senate, is not through fighting.

His campaign to rehabilitate himself will be fought along the following lines:

He will go back to Chicago and continue his banking business, and at the same time endeavor to strengthen his political machinery.

Two years from now he will make a fight to come back to Congress from the Sixth District, which he represented for fourteen years in the House of Representatives.

Ultimately, if the passage of years has lessened his disgrace and he has been able to build up his machine—he will try to come back to the United States Senate.

UNDERWOOD SEES WILSON TOMORROW

SEAGIRT, N. J., July 15.—When Governor Wilson finishes his duties at the State House at Trenton tomorrow he will slip away to the Trenton Country Club, where he will entertain at luncheon Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, the candidate for the nomination who at the latter part of the Baltimore fight withdrew from the race and swung to the New Jersey nominee the votes which he controlled.

WILSON PICKS CAMPAIGN MEN

CHICAGO, July 15.—Woodrow Wilson's selection of officers and plan of organization of the campaign, which will be made known at the meeting of the Democratic National Committee here today, are as follows:

William F. McCombs, national chairman with authority to preside over campaign committees.

M. G. McAdoo of New York, vice-chairman.

Joseph E. Davies of Milwaukee, national secretary.

Campaign Committee—Senator James O'Gorman, New York; Judge Robert S. Hudspeth of New Jersey, Joseph Thomas of Oklahoma; A. Mitchell Palmer, new national committeeman from Pennsylvania; William Sanisbury of Delaware; Congressman Albert Burleson of Texas; William E. McCombs, William G. McAdoo and Joseph E. Davies will also serve as members.

This is the committee as chosen by Governor Wilson, but among others who may be asked to serve in the event of any unforseen difficulty are Congressman Henry or Judge Sells of Texas, and Senator Obediah Gardner of Maine.

Treasurer Not Decided.

The selection of a treasurer will be left to the Campaign Committee and probably will not be made until after the conference between the committee and Governor Wilson next Wednesday. Governor Wilson favors the appointment of Henry Morgenthau, the rich New Yorker who was a large contributor to the early campaign.

The rules by which the national chairman and the national campaign committee will be governed have all been decided by Governor Wilson. They represent a departure from all previous customs and can only be likened to the system by which great corporations are controlled.

The campaign committee will act as a board of directors and all questions of business and policy will be decided by a majority vote. In this way the national chairman is safeguarded against individual mistakes in all matters of consequence. He could act without the authority of the committee as expressed by vote.

McCombs to Preside.

Mr. McCombs will have a vote in the committee and he is so closely identified with the Wilson interests that this vote will undoubtedly be looked on as the vote of the presidential candidate himself.

Mr. McCombs will preside over the national headquarters which will be located in New York city. There will be another headquarters in Chicago and a third in Denver or San Francisco. It has been left for the committee to select the latter who will preside over the two western headquarters.

After the meeting adjourns here the committee will go from Chicago to Indianapolis to pay their respects to Governor Marshall, Vice-presidential nominee. Thomas Taggart, the Indiana committeeman, was expected to quit with was not allowed to do so, was an early arrival here and secured the promise of the members to make a fight for the committeemen fold into the idea instantly.

$10,000 INCENDIARY FIRE IN STOUGHTON

BROCKTON, July 15.—A woman and an infant child were rescued and seven other persons had to flee from a fire which destroyed the barn of the Tobey farm, just over the Stoughton line, and damaged the dwelling house on the farm. The fire are believed to have been of incendiary origin. The damage is $10,000. Manuel Chaves rescued his sick wife and two weeks' old baby. Three other women and two children were in the farm residence. E. T. Hutchins, owner of the farm, reported to the police that he had feared for a year that his barn would be set afire. He gave the police the name of a man whom he said he suspected. Thirty-seven cows were saved by a contrivance Mr. Hutchins invented after he began to fear a firebug. The device released all the cows from their stalls at the same time.

MOST BOSSES COULDN'T EARN HONEST LIVING, DECLARES HAMMOND

In connection with my politics activities in different parts of this country, I have been convinced of the selfish and incompetent methods of political bosses. As a rule they are men of very mediocre ability and have limited capacity for organization. This applies to bosses of all parties and factions.

The majority of them are men who in any other vocation could not earn an honest living. They are not even skilled in their function as bosses.—John Hays Hammond.

SOCIALISTS NAME STATE TICKET

The Socialists' Clubs of Massachusetts, in naming a State ticket, in Paine Memorial Hall condemned the Boston Elevated on the ground that it discharged men to prevent their organizing, scored the city authorities, the police and the Governor in the railway strike, assailed the action of the judiciary in the Ettor and Giovannitti cases, declaring there was a conspiracy to send these men to the electric chair, and criticized the Boston police and courts in the arrest and sentence of the men at Faneuil Hall.

The following ticket was indorsed and will appear on the ballot at the primaries: Governor, James F. Carey of Haverhill; Lieutenant-Governor, Robert B. Martin of Hyde Park; Secretary of State, Ellen M. Hayes of Wellesley; attorney-general, George E. Roewer, Jr., of Boston; auditor, Sylvester J. McBride of Watertown; treasurer, Louis F. Weiss of Worcester.

The platform contained, among other things, the following: Minimum wage, equal pay regardless of sex, abolition of United States Senate, abrogation of the power of courts to nullify laws passed by the Legislature, election of judges by the people, equal suffrage, initiative and referendum, to prohibit injunction in labor disputes, home rule for cities, the right to strike and boycott, free meals to children at school with abolition of child labor, constitutional right of free speech, free press and peaceable assemblage, right of recall, state insurance, and the collective ownership of land, telegraph, telephone, express and steam and electric railroads.

A motion was made that the Socialist party shall appoint a week in which State meetings and local meetings shall be held in each city and town in the State where there is a Socialist local.

PEOPLE IN CLARK'S HOME REJECT BRYAN

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 15.—Indignation arose among the Democrats here when the announcement came from the Iowa Chautauqua Bureau that Colonel W. J. Bryan would be sent here during the Chautauqua in August instead of Henry W. Hardy. Some of the prominent Democrats declare most emphatically that it would not be safe for Bryan to invade this part of Clark's home district after his action in the Baltimore Convention against the Speaker. Effort will be made to cancel it.

HUGHES, NEW JERSEY, ASPIRES TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Representative William Hughes of New Jersey has confided to friends that he will be a candidate for the Senate to succeed Senator Frank Briggs. Mr. Hughes is at his home in Paterson preparing for the formal announcing of his boom. He is serving his fourth term in the House. Mr. Hughes is one of Governor Wilson's right hand men and expects to come to the Senate if Governor Wilson goes to the White House.

PILGRIMS AFTER THE FINAL GAME

CHICAGO, July 15.—The Boston Pilgrims still hope to win a game in the present series from the Cubs, and today Manager Kling will put on his best front in an effort to down the local prides.

The Pilgrims almost turned the trick yesterday, and so hope is strong within their breasts that today will see the trick accomplished.

It was a peculiar game in many respects yesterday, and the winner was very much in doubt until the Cubs put over the final tally in the thirteenth, aided by Barden's bad throw to second.

The game was chiefly remarkable for the quantity of players used in it, and for the smart jockeying between two managers, each of whom knew the other so well that he could foresee most of the moves, and each of whom tried to checkmate the other.

In this process Chance used seventeen Cubs and Kling worked twelve Pilgrims. Some of them were not in the game long enough to be recognized, and at one time the switches came so fast that every time we looked up from the score book there was a new athlete butting into it.

Oregon City Boasts Only Woman Scorer

LA GRANDE, Oregon, July 15.—A woman scorer is acting in official capacity for the Western Tri-State League in this city. It is believed that Mrs. Jay Van Buren, who is now judging the errors and hits in games played in this city, is the only woman baseball scorer in the world.

At the beginning of the season here A. W. Nelson, a newspaper man, was appointed official scorer for the Grande, but his duties were such that he was unable to finish the season, and Mrs. Van Buren now holds the position.

So far there has been nothing but praise for the woman expert's work, and even the players have pronounced her a capable official. All through the season she will act as scorer here, according to present plans.

Mrs. Van Buren's ability at scoring is the result of ten years of practice. Her husband, an ardent fan, and in his younger days a fast player, taught her to score that long ago, and ever since she has been a regular attendant at every game played here.

BAN SUNDAY BASEBALL.

ENTER IN WORLD SERIES CONTEST

Was your name in yesterday's list of world's series candidates?

If it wasn't, it's high time that you put it there.

There is no sense in waiting until "later" to enter the contest; the time to get your name in the list is NOW; right in with the early starters.

The nomination blank, which will be found on another page of today's AMERICAN, if used NOW, will count 500 votes for you and put you in the race with an even start.

And don't forget for a minute that its going to be "the treat of the year" to actually SEE the Red Sox battle for a world's championship. Every "fan" in Boston and New England will be simply crazy to see these championship battles.

Some 50 fans will enjoy the games, at the AMERICAN'S expense and travel from city to city in royal style, live at the best hotels and represent New England's greatest newspaper institution.

Be ONE of the twenty!

You can! It's easy!

Use that nomination blank NOW and get your 500 extra votes.

The regular vote value during the contest will be two votes daily and ten votes Sunday. And under no circumstances will the votes, value be changed during the contest.

The Contest Editor wishes to emphasize this point, so that all contestants will know at all times just where "they're at."

Better let's have YOUR nomination NOW so that we will get it in the first mail tomorrow morning.

TENNIS NOTES

The first round for the Longwood Challenge Bowl starts today and the matches to watch in the first and second rounds are Dabney vs. Washburn, Behr vs. Seaver, Grant vs. Jones and Nickerson vs. Towbridge. The doubles matches will close today and start tomorrow morning. Here Beals Wright and Kazi Behr as a team are expected to shine. Some of the other teams are Niles and Dabney, Sullivan and Whitney, Clothier and Gardner, E. F. and W. A. Larned.

To see the grass at Longwood in such superb condition speaks volumes for the care it has received previous to this tourney. Groundsman Chambers is responsible.

No draw ever proved a better success at Longwood for, fortunately, no two of the crack players were drawn so that they would meet in the early rounds. Clothier should dominate the lower half of the draw with Miles and Touchard and those who should come through in the upper half are McLaughlin, Ingram and Behr.

Many enthusiasts are wondering how the Larned brothers will pair up in the doubles. Their similarity of play is one asset, but the fact that both have excelled in singles tends to a lack of team work, similar to the exhibition which Larned and Clothier gave. Let us hope that the same spirit which decided the challenge match for Dwight Davis will pervade the "family" with a resulting success in team work.

Boston's representative, N. W. Niles, who won the doubles cup at Scabright Saturday, by defeating William Clothier, former national champion and international in the ring, three sets to one, has been given things at Longwood this week. His defeat of Clothier shows him to be one of the most formidable players, who is second to none as to ability to withstand a grueling contest. He is the only Massachusetts player in the ranking ten players of the country this year. He ranks sixth.

Golfers to Be Kept Busy at Tourneys

The golfers all over the country will have a busy time this week, with many of the big championships and tournaments taking place. About all the cracks will compete.

The events on the card for the week include the following:

Monday to Saturday—Denver, Col., Country Club, Western amateur championship; Bloomington, Ill., Country Club, Central Illinois championship.

Tuesday—Huntington Valley Country Club, Philadelphia Golf Association open championship.

Wednesday—Oakmont Country Club, Western Pennsylvania open championship; Wayland Club, Des Moines city championship.

Thursday to Saturday—Essex County Club, Manchester, Mass., annual three-day invitation tournament, match play; Dunwoodie Country Club, Yonkers, N. Y., invitation tournament; Atlanta A. C., invitation tournament.

Friday and Saturday—Shawnee Country Club, invitation tournament.

Going to Phillips-Andover Academy with practically no money with which to pay his expenses, Barney made good in his studies and then made good at athletics. He made enough money outside of school hours to pay his younger brother's tuition, and paved the way for a still younger brother.

Leads Best Baseball Team.

He played with the Andover baseball team four years and captained it twice. He was leader of the finest baseball team Andover has ever turned out. He was for two years captain of the basketball team, manager of the track team, cheer leader, played football, basketball and was a member of the track team and captain of his class track team. He was voted the most popular boy in the school.

He was a member of the school council, the glee club, class relay team, the school athletic advisory board and president of his class.

Going to Yale University, Barney was in the path of his brothers.

Grand Circuit Opens Today at Kalamazoo

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 15.—It is expected that the grand circuit trotting meeting, which opens here today, will prove one of the banner meetings of the season.

The program as announced includes all horses that were entered at Grand Rapids last week and, in addition, a number that have yet to make their start. The track is in excellent condition. The race cars has attractions for each of the five days' racing, as follows:

On Monday the 2:07 and 2:14 paces, early closers, have rare fields, and the 2:12 and 2:16 trots have filled nicely. The 2:08 trot, with a popular field, is a feature of the Tuesday card, and on Wednesday the $10,000 Paper Mills purse will bring together all the stars.

The 2:10 pace for $5,000 is set for Thursday. Both of the free-for-alls are saved for Friday, the last day.

REDS RECRUIT IS AFRAID OF POLICE

CINCINNATI, July 15.—Charles Thompson, the new pitcher of the Reds, is a guileless youth, who looks anything but a ball player. Thompkins when he came East to join the club wandered for several hours before he located the hotel.

When Hank O'Day wanted to know why he didn't ask a policeman, Thompkins explained that, where he came from, nobody ever spoke to a policeman unless he wanted to surrender himself for some misdemeanor, and he, Thompkins, had not been misdemeaning any.

Reilly Boys Have Great Records All Three Leaders in Athletics

There probably is not another family in the world that has attained as high a place in the college athletic world as the Reilly family of Brockton.

The Reilly boys have established records at preparatory schools and colleges, which is quite remarkable in view of the fact that the "tree boys have all accomplished practically the same feats.

The trio of which their parents are so proud are Bernard E. Reilly, James A. Reilly and John H. Reilly, sons of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Reilly of Highland street, Brockton. The three boys are practically better known in the college athletic world than any other athletes.

Barney, or Bernard, became famous when he played baseball with the Brockton High School teams back in 1902. He played with the high school four seasons and was captain one year. He was a star player for one so young and the team he captained was the best ever turned out from the Brockton institution.

Going to Phillips-Andover Academy with practically no money with which to pay his expenses, Barney made good in his studies and then made good at athletics. He made enough money outside of school hours to pay his younger brother's tuition, and paved the way for a still younger brother.

He was voted the most popular boy in the school.

He was a member of the school council, the glee club, class relay team, the school athletic advisory board and president of his class.

Going to Yale University, Barney was in the path of his brothers.

He coached the Yale varsity baseball team for two years and played a prominent part in college athletics.

On graduating he went to St. Joseph, Mo., where he is now one of the leading baseball players. He played professional baseball with New England League teams and with the Chicago White Sox and the Brooklyn Nationals.

Also Captains Andover Nine.

His brother James played with the Brockton High School team and played with Andover for four years, also captaining it. He played with the basket ball team, the football team, was a member of the track team, class relay team, cheer leader, basket ball manager of the track team, cheer leader, hockey team. He played class basket ball and football all four years and was a leader in all branches of athetics. He was chairman of the prom committee, president of his class for three years, a member of the student council, and was voted the most popular boy in school.

At Yale he was elected captain of the freshman baseball team, chosen president of his class, captain of the varsity football two years, and was a member of the best frat in the school. He was graduated this year.

John, the youngest, played baseball at Andover four years and captained one year. He was president of his class, played basketball, football, captained his class track, football and baseball teams, was cheer leader, and was voted the most popular boy in school.

At Yale he was chosen president of his class and was elected captain of his baseball team. He has a great future before him and will undoubtedly follow in the path of his brothers.

FOUR SWIM TO BOSTON LIGHT

SWIMMERS WHO HAVE REACHED THE LIGHT

Aug. 20, 1905—Alois Anderle, New York, 5 hours, 38 minutes.
Aug. 7, 1910—Rose Pitonof, Dorchester, 6 hours, 50 minutes, 30 seconds.
Aug. 6, 1912—Sam Richards, Jr., South Boston, 6 hours 15 minutes.
Aug. 20, 1911—Alois Aykroyd, East Boston, 7 hours, 12 minutes.
July 14, 1912—Sam Richards, Jr., South Boston, 5 hours, 15 minutes, 40 4-5 seconds.
Henry F. Sullivan, Lowell, 6 hours, 21 minutes, 36 seconds.
John Bray, Revere, 7 hours, 36 minutes.
Augustus Wise, Boston, 8 hours, 11 minutes.

Sam Richards of South Boston proved his prowess as a swimmer yesterday, by again swimming to Boston Light, and setting up a new record for the long course.

Richards' time was 5h. 15m. 40 4-5s. The best previous time was established by Alois Anderle in 1909, who made the course in 5h. 38m.

Three other swimmers reached the goal out of the thirty starters who dove off the Warren Bridge at Charlestown at 10 o'clock yesterday forenoon.

Finishing second to Richards was Henry F. Sullivan of the Lowell C. Y. M. L. The time made by the boy from the Spindle City was 6h. 21m. 36s.

John Bray, who has competed several times in long-distance swims, was the third athlete to reach the beacon, finishing in 7h. 28m.

Augustus Wise of South Boston was the last to reach the coveted goal, in 8h. 11m. Four prizes were awarded the winners by the Pilgrim A. A.

Annie Moesquit of Revere, who competed in Boston Light swims twice in 1910, and holder of the record for the swim from Nahant to Revere Beach, was a competitor, swimming in front of Fort Strong she suddenly stopped from exhaustion.

Her condition was such that she was removed to the hospital at the fort, after which she returned to her home.

Leaders Draw Away.

The field was well bunched up to North End Park, and then Richards and George Meehan of Brookline began to draw away, swimming strong and fast, close in toward the wharves, the two leaders passed Lewis wharf.

Richards took the lead at the mile mark, with Meehan trailing ten yards behind. The time was 32m. 10s. Sullivan was seventh at this point, and Bray sixteenth.

They reached Long Island Head after being in the water three hours six minutes and ten seconds, and gained the northern end of George's one hour and four minutes later.

Both men passed through the gaping jaws of dreaded Blackrock in safety and reached a point off Bug Light in four hours thirty-two minutes and forty-two seconds. This for the first time they espied the dim white beacon partly shrouded in the mists, and started out toward that goal with renewed courage and hope.

Meehan, however, was doomed to disappointment, and was taken from the water with Richards leading him by 150 yards, and less than three-quarters of a mile to go.

The latter set foot on the rocky shores at 3:15 in superb condition.

Sullivan followed the course taken by Richards and reached the goal at 4:20. Bray arrived at 5:35 and Wise at 6:10.

English Boxers Are a Poor Lot Baldwin Favorite in Big Bout

By JACK CONWAY.

THERE was once a time when England was represented by some of the greatest boxers in the world. The mitt wielders from the foggy island were feared in every part of the world. But these days have long since faded into oblivion. The English boxers of today are very poor. This is particularly so in the welterweight, middleweight and heavyweight divisions. England's big boxers are huge jokes when compared with the Yankee battlers.

Two English champions were knocked out in New York recently. Bombardier Wells, heavyweight champion of England, who was touted as the coming world's champion, was sent to the canvas in three rounds by Al Palzer, the powerful lowa farmer boy.

"Kid" Burns, the English welterweight champion, was knocked out in five rounds by Mike Gibbons of St. Paul. "Kid" Smith, flyweight champion of England, visited these shores last Winter, but only remained here a short while. There is little opportunity for a flyweight to prove his worth in an American ring, as the public is clamoring for matches between lightweights, middleweights and heavyweights.

Matt Wells, who is the best lightweight in England, has had pretty tough sledding in this country during the past six months. His most important bout was with Packey McFarland, the wonderful Chicago boxer. The men weighed in at 125 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. McFarland and Wells are both at their best at this weight, but Wells is considered one of the cleverest men that ever pulled on a padded mitt, but he was but like a mere child in the hands of Packey. The Chicago pride toyed with the English title holder for ten rounds and won the popular decision by a wide margin.

FREDDY WELSH, the former English lightweight champion, and Owen Moran have both gone back and there are a number of Yankee 133 pounders who would be able to vanquish either of these men with ease.

Welsh's downfall was caused by sickness. The steady Welshman has been ill most of the time since his bout with Willie Ritchie, which was staged on the Coast on Thanksgiving Day. Moran has failed to win an important battle since he was knocked out by the mighty Wolgast a year ago last Fourth of July.

Owen is but a shell of a former great fighter. He has been defeated by boxers during the past few months whom he would have easily vanquished in the old days when he was one of the classiest lightweights in the game.

It is indeed a sad day for English boxers and English champions in particular. The Britons should wake up and show more interest in the sport in which they were once so well represented. England, at one time, was the foremost athletic country in the world, but things have gone from bad to worse during the past decade. A striking example of this is shown in the classic Olympic games which are being held at Stockholm, Sweden. The English track and field athletes have been completely outclassed by their American cousins.

FEW good bouts are scheduled to take place in the East this week. New England fight "fans" are interested in the twelve-round bout between Matty Baldwin of Charlestown and Tommy O'Keefe of Philadelphia, which takes place at the Pilgrim Club tomorrow night. Both boys are in perfect condition for the fray and each one of the twelve rounds should be crowded with action. Baldwin rules a 5 to 3 favorite.

Baldwin is now fighting in wonderful form and he is sure to make things interesting for the boy from the Quaker city. Matty is now anxious to get a match with either Champion Ad Wolgast or Joe Rivers and he realizes that the best way for him to gain recognition from either of these "headliners" is by taking a fall out of O'Keefe.

The Philadelphia boxer is well known to New England lovers of the manly art. He appeared at the Armory A. A. five times and won all but one of his bouts. This was with Ray Bronson of Indianapolis, Bronson won by a knockout in three rounds. Afterwards he was unable to tell how he won. The reason for this was because he was in a dazed condition himself when he landed the lucky punch. He had just been knocked to the mat twice by O'Keefe and was on the verge of going to the canvas for the fatal count.

The preliminary card is one of the best that has been arranged for a local club for a long time. Jimmy Moriarty will meet Pork Le Fasor, Frankie Mack clashes with Kid Wilkes, while Jack Muncie will try to beat Chicken Boskin.

Rube Marquard Near State of Collapse

PITTSBURGH, July 15.—Several members of the Brooklyn team say that losing a game to the Cubs the other day was the best thing that could have happened to Rube Marquard, the New York Giants star pitcher.

Had he won a few more games Marquard would have been a fit candidate for the big house," was the way one of the Dodgers put it. "He was almost a physical wreck when we met him in the East before the present trip. It is true that he defeated us, but he was so nervous that the slightest untoward happening upset him. His mates were at his side almost every inning trying to take his attention from himself.

"Every time a fly ball was raised, Rube stood there with clenched fists and shaking limbs until it was caught. On one occasion Merkle went over for a foul fly. It was the third out, and an easy one. Fred made the catch, and Herzog had to go up and push Rube off the mound. He didn't even know how many were out.

"As soon as he reached the bench—we were all watching him—Rube wrapped his sweater about his right arm instead of his left, with which he swirls. He had a wild appearance, and acted like an escaped lunatic.

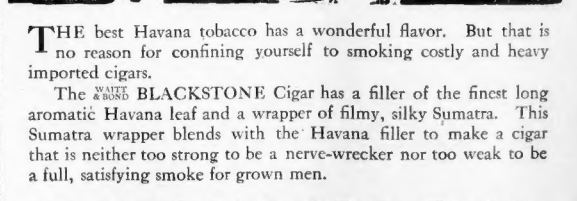
"He confided to one of our men that he was so worried about his winning streak that he couldn't sleep at night for thinking of it. He made a grand record, all right, but I am inclined to believe that he will be some time in recovering from it."

NEW STAR FOR TIGERS.

Cary Zamlock, a pitcher, has been purchased by the Tigers from the Missoula (Mont.) Club for a consideration said to be $2,000. He met the approval of Jim McGuire, who saw him pitch a one-hit game against Salt Lake City. He has won ten out of twelve games this season. Zamlock will not be turned over to the Detroit team till the end of the 1912 season.

ALFRED S. WINS AGAIN.

NEW YORK, July 15.—By the way of showing that her victory in the 200-mile race to Cornfield Light last week was not an accident, the power yacht Alfred S. finished the winner again yesterday in the fifty-mile event of the Hudson Motor Boat Club. Although the smallest boat in the event, the Alfred S. had nearly an hour and a quarter to spare at the finish.



THE best Havana tobacco has a wonderful flavor. But that is no reason for confining yourself to smoking costly and heavy imported cigars.

The WAITT & BOND BLACKSTONE Cigar has a filler of the finest long aromatic Havana leaf and a wrapper of filmy, silky Sumatra. This Sumatra wrapper blends with the Havana filler to make a cigar that is neither too strong to be a nerve-wrecker nor too weak to be a full, satisfying smoke for grown men.

WAITT & BOND BLACKSTONE CIGAR 10c

We have specialized for more than thirty years in producing a cigar that would combine the highest quality and aroma with the least harmful effects.

To rid your mind of the imported Havana bugaboo and switch to WAITT & BOND BLACKSTONE means a saving of more than money—though the amount of money thus saved will not be small.

The Place Where All Good Sweethearts Go.

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

"THE fellow that just went out was a swell fellow," said the Manicure Lady. "Did you notice him, George?"

"Not particularly," said the Head Barber, "except that he was big and husky enough to look like a white hope. Why?"

"I want to tell you about that chap," said the Manicure Lady. "He is the first real gentleman that has been in here this week, and about the third or fourth gentleman I have met since goodness knows when.

"I wish there was more men like him in the world, George. He told me all about himself in a quiet sort of way when he sat down. I seen from the bashful way he acted that he wasn't used to having his nails did. It seems he is a iron worker, and has saved up a thousand dollars. He is going to be married today, and he told me that he had never had his hands fixed up by anybody except himself and some soap and hot water. He said that the girl he is going to marry has the most soft and beautiful white hands he ever saw, and he explained to me the best he could that he wanted to have his hands look at least half way good when the preacher was doing his duty.

"I guess I am a good deal of a democrat, George, but I certainly liked the way that man sat there, with his big, strong paws full of little scars from the kind of work he did. I have held a lot of hands since I broke into this profession, and the most of them weren't kind of hands I would like to hold courting on a sofa. This chap's hands could have broken mine in two with a single twist, but he was as gentle as a kid, and he never said a word to me that he wouldn't have said to his sister. If there was more men like that getting their nails did, the manicure girls would be more happy."

"Did he tip you?" asked the cynical Head Barber.

"He certainly did, George," said the Manicure Lady, "and he was a perfect dear, too, the way he went about it. When I was all through he asked me how much, and I told him fifty cents, and he gave me a dollar note. Then he said, 'I hope you won't be offended if I ask you to keep the change. This is my wedding day, and I am celebrating.' Can you beat that, George, for Boston? He tipped me, and hoped I wouldn't get offended!"

"He looked like a regular guy all right," said the Head Barber. "Them iron workers is mostly pretty tough citizens in a fight, but that kind of men is always good to women."

"I know it," replied the Manicure Lady. "It must take a awful brave man to stand two hundred feet up in the air balanced on a steel beam."

"You bet," said the Head Barber, "but if he is going to be married he will be further up in the air than he ever was in his working hours."

Doing Her Best.

Ida—But maybe he was bashful. You should have thrown out some hint that a kiss would not be objectionable.

May—I did everything possible. I told him I had such a sore throat that I couldn't scream, no matter what happened.

The Boy Who Killed Twenty-one Pints of Flies

Master Clessen Kellerman.

HERE is a boy that deserves a medal. He has not killed an unusual number of men in battle or invented murderous machinery for killing them or done any of the things for which medals are usually given. What he has done is kill twenty-one pints of flies, and in making this "Swat the Fly" record he has possibly saved more human lives than any war hero ever destroyed.

He is a St. Louis schoolboy, Clessen Kellerman, in that city there is a contest for boys in "swatting the fly." The boy who turns in the biggest record in pints of slain flies is given a prize. The citizens who offered these prizes took that means of making clear to children the importance of destroying the fly wherever he is found. In late years scientists have discovered that the fly is one of the greatest scourges of man. He carries typhoid fever and other terrible diseases in the germs that cling to his feet and "feelers." It is now believed that scores of little babies who have died of infantile paralysis—a so-far incurable disease—would be alive today if a fly had not crawled across their lips as they were lying helpless and unprotected in their cradles.

No boy who understands this much about the danger of flies needs prizes or contests to encourage him to kill every fly he can.

A Bachelor's Diary

He Decides Not to Have a Governess for the Children, but a Merry Smile Makes Him Change His Mind

By MAX.

JUNE 6—I presume that when a man has been a family man long enough there is nothing in the feminine line that can surprise him.

He drums up his courage to meet a female tyrant, and finds that the type of tyrant he imagined belongs to his boyhood days and no longer exists.

He learned when a boy to associate education with grimness. The road to knowledge was not only a hilly one, but it was desolate of everything that was beautiful or enticing, and an ogress with a whip marched behind, quick to notice any one who lagged and as quick to apply a remedy.

I had such a vision in my mind while waiting in my library this evening for an interview with the governess Mrs. Spencer has selected for the children.

I was pitying them from the bottom of my heart and had planned in a cowardly way all sorts of schemes for averting this first great tragedy of childhood.

I would tell the applicant, I thought, that the children were incorrigible, "You will find it a hard place," I practised saying to the empty chair opposite me. "The children are spoiled and beyond all control. You will have the nurse as your superior officer"—here I chuckled, knowing that no grim Educational Bureau would stand it to take orders from Richards—"and I am quite sure you won't like the place."

In Walked—an Angel

Then, I planned, she will decline to consider the position, and I will escort her gravely to the door, murmuring my regrets all the way. Then I would call up Mrs. Spencer and tell her the governess refused the place though I had begged her to take it, with the privilege of naming her own salary.

It seemed such a simple way to dispose of the matter that I laughed out loud, and was still laughing at the manner in which I intended to outwit the enemy, i. e., Mrs. Spencer, when the door opened, and I heard Forbes say, "Miss Lee," and in walked—an angel!

She was dressed all in gray. And she seemed to be about as high as a man's heart. Her eyes were dark, and when they first looked into mine I could detect laughter in their depths, and a smile lingered around her lips.

She was so plainly amused that I laughed again in pure sympathy.

"If you will take a chair," I said, pulling forward a comfortable little rocker, "I would like to make a bargain with you."

She came across the room and took the chair. "That is what I came for," she said.

I couldn't quite understand what she meant by that, but I went on:

"The bargain is this: If you will tell me what you were laughing at, I will tell you what amused me."

She looked a little surprised, and then began to laugh. "I was laughing at you," she said.

"All right. Now I will tell you what amused me. You see I have a neighbor who thinks two little adopted nieces in my care need a governess. An applicant will be here shortly, and I intend to picture those little angels upstairs as such monsters she will refuse to take the place."

Roared at His Own Wit

Then I threw back my head, and roared. Man-like, I enjoyed my own wit.

But she did not laugh with me. Indeed, she got a queer little look of disappointment in her face.

"Don't you want a governess for the children?" she asked anxiously.

"I don't want," I said, not without a little irritation, for I was determined Mrs. Spencer shouldn't install any grim Educational Bureau over me; "any woman to come into this house who will dream that we eat and talk by the rule of three. I don't want to be reminded every time I look at those children that I have put a grim tyrant in charge of them. Some cross, sour person to bring them up by the back of the neck, beating them on the head with a primer on the way."

"I can just picture her, cold and dignified and unloving, just built to score a child through its school books. If their education must be bought at the price of having such a female monster around the house, I'll bring them up in ignorance, and be proud of it."

My caller rose.

"But I forgot myself," I apologized. "Here I have been telling my troubles to you without asking if there is anything I can do for you"—hesitating, for I hadn't an idea what her errand might be—"I didn't hear you say to what I am indebted for the call."

We were standing, and I was inwardly abusing myself for being such a clumsy dolt. Here I had talked incessantly of my affairs, and had remained rudely oblivious of hers.

Perhaps she was an artist, and wanted to paint the babies' pictures. I had frequent requests like that. Perhaps she was a book agent, though she hardly looked it.

The look of disappointment in her eyes had fled before a look of quiet amusement. She glanced around the room, as if seeking for time before stating her errand."

"I am Miss Lee," she said finally.

"I am glad to meet you," I replied, awkwardly, wondering what she would say next. I knew of no Miss Lee. Perhaps she was a relative of the Lees who used to live in the neighborhood and had moved South. Ah, that was it!

"Pray be seated," I said, hoping to atone for my rudeness. "I am expecting an applicant for the position of governess in a few minutes, but will be at liberty to talk to you as soon as I have dismissed her."

"And that won't take long," I laughed. "I am Miss Lee," she repeated, "the applicant for the place."

Dazed by Her Reply

I staggered into my chair, dazed. "Her name," I stammered, "is Nell, I am sure that is what Mrs. Spencer said over the telephone."

"You misunderstood," she replied. "It is Lee," with the smiles beginning to play around her mouth—"as always been Lee."

This pretty, demure little wren the grim-visaged, sour-hearted and stern-minded woman I was expecting? Impossible!

"I am the cross, sour person who wants the position of bringing up your children by the back of their necks, pounding them on the head with a primer by the way," she said.

Then we did what is always best to do to relieve a situation. We laughed! And we laughed long and heartily, and when she had dropped into her chair, and her laugh had died into smiles, and mine was dying away in a sheepish grin, we began to talk business.

Suffice it to say, dear diary, that I will NOT telephone Mrs. Spencer in the morning that the governess she selected for the babies refused to take the place.

Honest Advice to Consumptives

Many noted physicians have declared that Consumption is a curable disease. We state none but facts, and are always in what we assert. The reason we advise all Consumptives to take Eckman's Alterative promptly and faithfully is because we have the reports of many recoveries, one of which follows:

1819 Susquehanna Ave., Phila., Pa.

"Gentlemen:—For two years I was afected with hemorrhages of the lungs and our family physician advised another climate, as to remain would probably be fatal; however, I remained and when I recovered sufficiently to walk about the house I was left with a frightful hacking cough, which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. It was at this time, March, 1902, that I learned of Eckman's Alterative. In a short time my cough left me, eyes and I was restored well or cured, as long as I can obtain Eckman's Alterative I have no fear of Consumption."

(Signed) HOWARD L. KLOTZ.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in opposition to custom, does not contain a drop of whisky, harsh drug or opiate. For sale by Riker-Hegeman & Druggists, Drug Depts., and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed conterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Central Drug Co., of Detroit, Mich., says: "We consider your Castoria in a class distinct from patent medicines and commend it."

Christy Drug Stores, of Pittsburg, Pa., say: "We have sold your Castoria for so many years with such satisfactory results that we cannot refrain from saying a good word for it when we get a chance."

Jacob Bros., of Philadelphia, Pa., say: "We take pleasure in recommending Fletcher's Castoria as one of the oldest and best of the preparations of the kind upon the market."

Hess & McCann, of Kansas City, Mo., say: "Your Castoria always gives satisfaction. We have no substitute for it and only sell 'The Kind You Have Always Bought,' the original."

The Voegeli Bros., of Minneapolis, Minn., say: "We wish to say that we have at all times a large demand for Fletcher's Castoria at all of our three stores and that it gives universal satisfaction to our trade."

Polk Miller Drug Co., of Richmond, Va., says: "Your Castoria is one of the most satisfactory preparations we have ever handled. It seems to satisfy completely the public demand for such an article and is steadily creating a growing sale by its merit."

F. A. Capdan, of New Orleans, La., says: "We handle every good home remedy demanded by the public and while our shelves are thoroughly equipped with the best of drugs and proprietary articles, there are few if any which have the unceasing sale that your Castoria has."

M. C. Dow, of Cincinnati, Ohio, says: "When people in increasing numbers purchase a remedy and continue buying it for years; when it passes the fad or experimental stage and becomes a household necessity, then it can be said its worth has been firmly established. We can and do gladly offer this kind of commendation to Fletcher's Castoria."

One of the Greatest Detective Stories Ever Written

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

Copyright, 1913, by Edward J. Clode

"THIS time, then, the 'properties' made up the 'show,' as Miss Harding would put it?"

"They did, and no mistake. I gave her no time to think or act. I found her sitting with her mother, admiring a new carpet she had just laid down. I said, 'Is your name Jane Harding, now engaged at the Jollity Theatre, under the alias of Marie le Marchant, but formerly a maid in the service of Lady Dyke?' She grew very white, and said, 'Yes,' while her mother clutched hold of her, terrified. Then I whipped out the warrant and the cuffs. My, but you should have heard them squeal when the bracelets clinked together. 'What has my child done?' screamed the mother. 'Perhaps nothing, madam,' I answered; but she is guilty in the eyes of the law just the same if she persists in screening the guilty parties.'

"Jane Harding was trembling and sobbing, but she said, 'It is very hard of me, but I have done nothing.' I trembled myself then, as I feared that she might offer to come with me to the police station, in which case I should have been dished. But the mother fixed the affair splendidly. 'I am sure my daughter will not conceal anything,' she said, 'and it is a shame to disgrace her in this way without telling what it is you want to know.' I took the cue in an instant. 'I am empowered,' I said, 'to suspend this warrant, and perhaps do away with it altogether, if she answers my questions fully and truthfully.' 'Why, of course she will,' said the mother, and the girl, though desperately upset, whimpered her agreement. With that I got the whole story."

"Sir Charles Dyke inspired her actions, I suppose."

HOW WHITE OBTAINED THE CONFESSION.

(Posed by Florence Stirley and Charles Winninger, of "The Wall Street Girl" Company.)

"Then I whipped out the warrant and the cuffs. My, you should have heard her squeal."

"From the very beginning almost. At first Jane Harding herself believed, when she gave evidence at the inquest, that the body she saw was not that of Lady Dyke; but afterward she changed her opinion, especially when she recalled the exact pattern and materials of the underclothing. Then my inquiries put her on the scent. Being rather a sharp girl, she jumped to the conclusion that Sir Charles knew more about the matter than he professed. In any case, her place was gone, and she would soon be dismissed, so she resolved on a play even bolder than mine in threatening to lock her up. She watched her opportunity, found Sir Charles alone one day, and told him that from certain things within her knowledge, she thought it her duty to go to the police station. He was startled, she could see, and asked her to explain herself. She said that her mistress had been killed, and she might be able to put the police on the right track. He hesitated, not knowing what to say; so she hinted that it would mean a lot of trouble for her, and she would prefer, if she had £500, to go to America, and let the matter drop altogether. He told her that he did not desire to have Lady Dyke's name brought into public notoriety. Sooner than allow such a thing to occur, he would give her the money. An hour later he handed her fifty ten-pound notes."

A Wretched Mistake

"What a wretched mistake," cried Bruce, involuntarily. The unmasking of his unfortunate friend's duplicity was the most painful feature of all to him.

"Perhaps it was," replied the detective, "but the thing is not yet quite clear to me. That is why I am here. But to continue. The girl admitted that she lost her head a bit. Instead of leaving the house openly, without attracting comment, she simply bolted, thus giving rise to the second sensational element attending Lady Dyke's disappearance. But she resolved to be faithful to her promise. When you found her she held her tongue, and even wrote to Sir Charles to assure him that she had not spoken a word to a soul. He sent for her, and pitched into her about not going to America, but took her address in case he wished to see her again."

"He recognized her letter-writing powers, no doubt."

"Evidently. She was surprised last Thursday week to receive a telegram asking her to meet him at York Station. When she arrived there he asked her to write the letter he handed to you and to post it in London on Saturday evening. He explained that his action was due to his keen anxiety to shield his wife's name, and that this letter would settle the affair altogether. As he handed her another bundle of notes, and promised to settle £500 a year on her for life, she was willing enough to help him. During your interview with her you guessed the reason why she wrote Lady Dyke's hand so perfectly. She had copied it for three years."

"All this must have astonished you considerably?"

"Mr. Bruce, astonished isn't the word. I was flabbergasted! Once she started talking I let her alone, only rattling the handcuffs when she seemed inclined to stop. But all the time I felt as if the top of my head had been blown off."

"I imagine she had not much more to tell you?"

"She pitched into you as the cause of all the mischief, and went so far as to say that she was sure it was not Sir Charles who killed Lady Dyke, but you yourself."

Bruce winced at Jane Harding's logic. Were he able to retrieve the past three months the mystery of Lady Dyke's death would have remained a mystery forever.

"Now about the photograph," said the detective. "After I had left Jane Harding with a solemn warning to speak to no one until I saw her again, I made a round of the fashionable photographers and soon obtained an excellent likeness of Sir Charles. I showed it to Delson, and she said: 'That is Colonel Montgomery.' I showed it to the foreman of the furniture warehouse, and he said: 'That is the image of the man who ordered Mrs. Hillmer's suite.' Now, what on earth is the upshot of this business to be? I called at Wensley House, but was told that Sir Charles was not in town. Had he been in, I would not have seen him until I had dismissed matters with you."

"That is very good of you, Mr. White. May I ask your reason for showing him this consideration?"

The policeman, who was very earnest and very excited, banged his hand on the table as he cried:

"Don't you see what all this amounts to? I have no option but to arrest Sir Charles Dyke for the murder of his wife."

"That is a sad conclusion."

"And you believe he killed her?"

"Strange as it may seem to you, I do not."

"And I'm jiggered if I do either."

"I—I am greatly obliged to you, White," Claude bent his head almost to his knees, and for some minutes there was complete silence. When he again looked at the detective there were tears in his eyes.

"What can we do to unravel this tangled skein without creating untold mischief?" he murmured.

"It beats me, sir," was the perplexed answer. "But when I came in I imagined that Jane Harding or some one had been to see you. Surely you had learned something of all this before my arrival?"

"Yes, indeed. I had reached your goal, but by a different route. Unfortunately, my discovery only goes to confirm yours."

Bruce then told him of his visit to the lawyer's office, and its result. Mr. White listened to the recital with knitted brows.

"It is very clear," he said, when the barrister had ended, "that Lady Dyke was killed in Mrs. Hillmer's flat, that Sir Charles knew of her death, that he himself conveyed the body to the river bank at Putney and that ever since he has tried to throw dust in our eyes and prevent any knowledge of the true state of affairs reaching us."

"Your summary cannot be disputed in the least particular."

WOMEN PICKET KOSHER SHOPS

One hundred women today picketed the kosher meat shops in the West End, reviving the methods of the early days of the strike, as a result of the dealers' action in reopening their shops.

The third week of the strike opened with the wholesalers slaughtering almost up to the usual rate, and the retailers open for business. Among the strikers, the resignation of Mrs. Eva Hoffman, strike leader, was the sensation. The Mothers' Protective Association has reassumed control of the strike and revived the picketing, which had been stopped by those who have been in charge for the last few days.

A movement to establish cooperative butcher shops as a solution to the boycott was successfully launched at a meeting of strike sympathizers in Congress Hall, Chelsea. The meeting was attended by about 400 men and women, and lasted for over five hours. Over 200 enrolled themselves as stockholders of the new Cooperative Meat Association and contributed over $1,000 to the cause.

Simon Stone of Chelsea presided and introduced as speakers Mrs. Mary Gordon, president of the Chelsea Mothers' Protective Association; Frank Goodman, Morris Isenberg of Chelsea and Morris Stein of Lawrence.

A letter was sent in the name of the Jewish citizens of Chelsea to Governor Foss asking for aid. It read as follows:

To His Excellency Eugene N. Foss, Governor of Massachusetts: We, the Jewish citizens of Chelsea, respectfully appeal to your excellency to use your best efforts to effect a speedy relief of the prevailing difficulties which have grown out of the high price of meat. We are eager to cooperate with you and to help you aid us in whatever way you see fit to a settlement of the present distressing conditions.

A similar letter was sent to Mayor Mahoney of Chelsea.

Seven hundred boycott sympathizers filled Lincoln Hall, Malden, where plans were laid for the establishment of a cooperative meat selling plan, and 100 shares of $5 apiece in the new enterprise were sold.

Jewish boys and girls will aid the strike by canvassing Boston's Mrs. Malones with pledges to be signed, promising support to the strike.

Open air meetings nightly and a gathering on the Common, are planned for this week.

Whitman-Crocker Moving Picture Wedding Tomorrow

While a moving picture man turns the crank of his machine, Miss Jessie Adelina Crocker, the $10,000,000 California heiress, will be married to Malcom Douglas Whitman of Brookline, Mass., tennis star, at noon tomorrow, in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, San Mateo, Cal. Miss Crocker was a bridesmaid at the wedding of Mr. Whitman to his first wife.

The bridesmaids are to be the Misses Janetta and Harriet Alexander of New York, Miss Julia Langhorne and Miss Marjorie Joselyn of San Francisco. Harold Fitzgerald of New York will be the best man.

In October the couple will take up their residence in New York, having leased the home of Francis Burton Harrison at No. 870 Fifth avenue. Mrs. Harrison was Miss Crocker's sister.

More than $50,000 worth of wedding presents have been received from friends in the East and in Europe. One of the most beautiful gifts to the bride-to-be is a diamond-pearl tiara sent by Whitelaw Reid, United States ambassador to Great Britain.

Miss Crocker gave her age as twenty-five, and Whitman said he was thirty-five, when they applied for a marriage license.

As the couple entered the office Whitman said he would like a license.

"Is it a hunting license you wish or a marriage license?" asked the county clerk.

"Let your hair down," Whitman replied.

"Why do you want a hunter's license?" Miss Crocker asked.

"Why to go hunting, dear," Whitman responded.

STABLEMAN BADLY INJURED IN FIGHT

Domenic Mallfe, employed in a stable at No. 341 Hanover street, was taken to the Relief Hospital early today with a severe wound in his scalp, the result of an alleged fight in the stable where he works. It is believed he was stabbed with a pitchfork. Ronzo and Augustino Tarelli, brothers, thirty-one and twenty-six years old and living at No. 535 Hanover street, were arrested, charged with assault and battery.

DEATHS

ADOLPHUS G. McVEY, for forty years the yachting editor of a Boston paper, is dead at his home, No. 200 Hancock street, Dorchester.

For many years he was an officer of the Boston Municipal court.

ALONZO BRADLEY, known throughout the United States as a breeder of Holstein cattle, is dead at Lee, aged eighty.

JAMES DOOLEY a member of the Forty-Eighth Massachusetts Regiment in the civil War, is dead at his home, 22 Newman street, South Boston.

MRS. ELLEN E. WALLACE, mother of James Wallace of the Lynn baseball team, is dead at No. 108 Emerson street, South Boston, aged sixty.

CLARENCE E. GOODWIN, a member of the Tenmanny Club of Ward 17 and for a number of years a member of the Democratic Ward Committee of that ward, is dead at the City Hospital.

HARRY R. STANFIELD, aged seventy, is dead at the National Soldiers' Home, Hampton, Va. He was the son of Mark M. Stanfield, merchant, of Boston and New York.

Have You Seen Your Picture?

Style Snapshots Every Day

$5 AWAITS HER.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

Five Dollars Ready at the American Office for Those "Snapped" by Camera Man.

The evidence is almost all in!

The "exhibits"—meaning the pictures of Boston women shoppers appearing daily and Sunday in the AMERICAN—show just one thing.

There can be no further disagreement as to whether "Boston's women dress the frumps!" The cameras have proven conclusively and beyond doubt that "Boston is the most fashionable city in the country."

The AMERICAN'S camera men will continue to gather photographic evidence as to the chicness of Boston shoppers' style. They will again circulate all over the big store shopping district all day today, tomorrow and Wednesday of this week.

This will be the final week's evidence.

Hundreds of pictures have been taken on the first three days of each week and twenty of these are being reproduced each week in the AMERICAN—one each week day evening and fourteen each Sunday.

Any woman who went shopping in Boston on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of last week or the week before, or who goes on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of this week is likely to find her picture printed in the evening or Sunday AMERICAN.

The only way to be certain your picture has not appeared is to watch the evening and Sunday AMERICAN.

Any woman whose picture is printed has only to put on the clothing worn when the picture was taken and come to the American Prosperity Department, No. 5 Winthrop square, where a $5 gold piece will be handed to her as a recognition of her part in deciding the vexed question.

Your picture may appear any day and when it does it means $5 for you.

Remember, pictures appear daily and a whole page of them will be printed in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

Watch for yours.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

Stock Prices Go Higher in Quiet Markets

By W. H. ROSS.

STATE STREET, July 15.—Midday: The Boston market opened dull, but the tone was good. Most orders were of the odd lot variety. Prices ranged fractionally higher. Among coppers to advance were Calumet & Hecla, Allouez, Butte & Superior, Granby, Shannon, Ray Consolidated and North Butte.

It was said by cable that copper securities in the London market had been favorably influenced by forecasts of the fortnightly statistics of the metal to be published tomorrow.

Comparing reports of condition on June 14 this year with that of April 15, 1912, the banks of Boston, the reserve city, show gains as follows: Loans, $13,824,726; cash, $1,426,074; deposits, $14,384,013. The New England country banks, so-called, show gains in loans of $805,595, deposits of $3,036,789, but losses in cash of $167,626. All the banks in this section report the following gains: Loans, $14,630,321; cash, $3,258,448; deposits, $19,425,101.

James J. Phelan of Hornblower and Weeks sails for Europe tomorrow on the Lusitania and will be abroad for the remainder of the summer.

Bank Statement Helps in N. Y.

The strength shown at the opening in the New York market was partly attributed to the favorable character of the bank statement of Saturday. Most of the issues in which there is a speculative interest sold higher. Buying of Union Pacific caused that stock to gain 2 points, and in this respect it led the list. St. Paul was the weakest feature in early trading. It sold down to 99¾, a decline of ⅝ from Saturday's closing quotations. It soon recovered the loss, however.

Among issues to advance were Steel common, ¼; Amalgamated from ⅛ to ⅜; Erie common, ¼ to ⅝; Atchison, unchanged, to ¼ up; Reading, ⅝ to ⅝; Lehigh Valley, ⅛ to ⅜; Southern Pacific and Southern Railway, ⅜.

The curb was steady.

American in London were firm on professional dealings. The feature of the London market was the glut of money for loans.

England After Big Canal?

It is reported in Ottawa that Canadian railroads owning steamships got the Dominion government to induce England to try to prevent the United States from regulating Panama Canal tolls as it saw fit. Canada refused to adopt reciprocity with the United States, but does not hesitate now to try to get the privilege of using on equal terms with American ships a canal which was built by the latter's money and will be defended by American guns.

An Ottawa dispatch says: "It is believed in well-informed Canadian circles that England's interference in Panama Canal matters is not only instigated by the Canadian government, but that Canadian government's activity is due to representations made by Canadian railways which own steamship lines and are pushing an extended steamship service in the grain trade between Pacific coast and Europe after the opening of the Panama Canal."

A new view concerning the future of the big ditch is presented by a noted Philadelphia artist, who says:

"England has done everything possible to halt progress on the canal, and now seems to see that the completion of the work is at hand, she is prepared to raise a disturbance because the American government is going to Americanize ships through grafts and charge the merchant marine of the rest of the world no more tolls.

"What fun this will England to make such a suggestion! Why, it is a joke. Of course, it is not England hates this country as she never hated else. Let them preach their sentimental bosh about hands across the sea and the ocean is inviolable. England would throw fits of humiliation at the defeat of Admiral Togo, and everything in her power to hasten our downfall. She has not forgotten the days of '76 and '12, and I believe this country to keep ready. In fact, I predict that England will try to finance Canal before long.

Financial News in Brief.

It is reported that rising prices have at last checked the demand for steel products. The railroad equipment orders placed so far this year call for about 100,000 tons of steel, but rail contracts constituted but a small part of the total. Bridge contracts called for about 40,000 tons, building more than 100 bridges. The structural steel shops have been operating at 75 per cent of capacity. About 125 locomotives were contracted for, but two companies, the Baldwin and Canadian road had been originally booked for 1,000 locomotives. Rail contracts to lead, a line from the Wyoming of Watertown, recently bought by the Standard Oil.

The selling of Rio Tinto by a Parisian millionaire, and the break in the price of the metal, is said to have demoralized the tobacco market in the Paris bourse.

The Prairie Oil Company proposes to fight the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision to give lines as common carriers, and has filed with the commerce court a petition asking for an injunction. The reduction in express rates prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission will become effective July 20.

The president of the Pittsburg division of the Pennsylvania road are going to join engineers and firemen in demands for a pay raise as soon as a committee can formulate demands and grievances. They want a minimum of twenty cents an hour.

A suit involving alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law was filed on behalf of the United States in the circuit court at Chicago yesterday. It is directed against more than 300 corporations, associations and individuals. This suit will be distinct from that initiated by the Department of Justice today.

The New York State labor department reports that wages in that commonwealth are higher this year than they were last. At the end of May in that state there were 2,456 labor organizations with a total membership of 497,866.

The New York Herald blames the price decline in stocks on Standard Oil. It says: "The monetary situation has been of little value. The influence of the deficiency in the reserve of the New York banks created a set back last week, but was not confined to this market alone, but extended to London and Paris, where it had an influence in advancing discount rates, which in turn had a depressing effect on the markets. The further decline which occurred in investment securities was unexpected.

"On July 1 our manufacturing concerns found they had all the business they can attend to between then and October 15 and raised prices. They could not get enough steel from the mills to execute half of this business, even if they had additional plant capacity.

"A Boston special says that an agreement has been entered into concerning mining properties in the Northern part of the Butte & Superior district, which will obviate danger of litigation between that company and the Elm Orlu Company.

"The Standard Oil people have been making their own coppers prices, after paying dividends, of 12 per cent."

President Charles H. Schwab says he expects to see the great steel corporation, the United States Steel Corporation, earning $100,000,000 a year. Schwab's statements were in response to inquiries from Otto H. Kahn, George Blumenthal, James Speyer, Daniel G. Reid, Thomas F. Ryan and Samuel L. Marston.

The war organized the United States Steel Corporation has nearly doubled its earning power since organization, Schwab said. Its earnings have increased from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 annually, and its manufacturing costs, now more than $4,500,000,000. It is said that the idea of organizing the Steel Trust originated with Attorney William Corcoran Cook, counsel for the corporation, lawyer in America, and not with J. Pierpont Morgan, as is generally supposed.

Cosmopolitan Magazine 6% Gold Bonds

Now Open for Subscription in Denominations of $500 and $1,000 at Par

These bonds are issued by the International Magazine Company, which owns and publishes the Cosmopolitan Magazine, Motor and Motor Boating, the three leading publications in their lines, on which this Million Dollar Bond Issue is a first lien.

These 6% gold bonds are also guaranteed by William R. Hearst, and are protected by Twenty Million Dollars of assets.

The earnings of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, Motor and Motor Boating last year on which taxes were paid to the United States Government, were over five times the annual interest on this bond issue.

The Cosmopolitan reserves the right, however, to reject any or all subscriptions.

These bonds offer as safe and solid an investment as can be found in the United States and at the same time pay 6% interest.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

"Automobiles follow good roads as truly as trade follows the flag," declares V. A. Longaker, chairman and general manager of the American Motors Company. "For even inhabitant of California there is three-hundredths of an automobile. This is better translated into this: There is one automobile license number to every thirty inhabitants, without carrying it into the decimals.

"On June 18 the automobile license department of Secretary of State office, issued license number 75,975. The population of the State in 1910 was 2,377,549. New York State, with a population of 9,113,279 in 1910, recently reported receiving the 75,000 mark for automobiles. So you see the Empire State has nothing on the Golden State.

"Placing the average cost of an automobile at $1,200 of each unit to you are privileged to walk down or up on this figure, those 75,975 California licenses would mean an expenditure of $90,810,000. Those statistics do not include accessories, over increasing numbers of which are being sold to those who cannot afford a four-wheeler.

"Farmers are largely investing in motor cars now according to the licenses issued. Especially are they buying motor trucks for the multifarious activities of the ranch. Pure old fashion."

Mr. Longaker has just finished a tour of the West in the interest of the "American Four" car.

C. F. Whitney and charles H. Barney have resigned their positions with the firm of Whitney-Barney, who have handled the Lion, Selden cars and Stewart-Lippincott trucks in New England. They have sold and transferred all their stock and entire interests to Frank D. Wilcox.

Build the High School of Commerce in the Fenway

Such a Structure Would Improve Land That Has Lain a Dreary Waste for a Quarter of a Century and It Would Afford 1,200 Children a Chance to Be Educated Under Ideal Conditions

The propriety of erecting a half-million dollar schoolhouse for the High School of Commerce in the Fenway is being discussed in Boston. The question comes up in the United States District Court today in the form of an application for an injunction to prevent the building of the schoolhouse.

As a general thing it is safe to preserve the parks for the people and prevent the erection of buildings in these city breathing spots. But the trouble with the Fenway is that for the third of a century, instead of it being of any BENEFIT TO THE PEOPLE, it has been more or less of an eye-sore to the city.

It is believed by many people of Boston who have a just pride in her park system, and who have the welfare of the city sincerely at heart, that a splendid new structure such as the High School of Commerce will be, would ADD GREATLY TO THE APPEARANCE of the Fenway and do much to develop it as a pleasure resort.

The residents in the neighborhood of the Fenway and others who are fighting against the building of the schoolhouse there seem actuated by sentiment rather than moved by any solid reasons for the stand they have taken.

Sentiment is a splendid thing, but sometimes it may be carried too far.

"We opponents merely realize," says Sylvester Baxter, speaking for the Metropolitan Improvement League in opposing the school in the Fenway, "that to permit such a thing would establish a dangerous precedent."

"Sentiment" and "precedent" are somewhat synonymous. Sometimes a precedent is a good thing and sometimes a bad thing. The people can generally be relied upon to meet emergencies when they arise. In the opinion of Mayor Fitzgerald and of David A. Ellis, chairman of the Boston School Board, and many others who have given the subject close attention, the High School of Commerce building should be erected in the Fenway.

They point out that the school would BENEFIT THE FENWAY and that it would BENEFIT THE CHILDREN WHO ATTEND IT.

Chairman Ellis enumerates four reasons why the school building should be erected in the Fens:

FIRST, IT WOULD IMPROVE THE APPEARANCE OF THE DISTRICT.

SECOND, THE UNCULTIVATED SPACES SHOULD BE PUT TO ARCHITECTURAL USE NOT TO EXCEED REASONABLE LIMITS.

THIRD, GERMANY AND FRANCE WOULD WELCOME SUCH A PROPOSITION.

FOURTH, IT WOULD AFFORD 1,200 CHILDREN A CHANCE TO ATTEND SCHOOL IN THE MIDST OF IDEAL SURROUNDINGS.

It would seem to the AMERICAN that these reasons, solid and substantial, OUTWEIGH the sentimental ones advanced by the opponents of the Fenway school.

This newspaper is in favor of the BEVELOPMENT and IMPROVEMENT of Boston. It believes that a handsome big school building in the Fenway would be a step forward along these lines.

IMPROVE THE SCHOOLS. IMPROVE THE PARKS. IMPROVE THEM JOINTLY IF IT SEEMS EXPEDIENT.

The Democratic People vs. the Democratic House

The Democratic National Convention was more patriotic and more representative of American sentiment than the Democratic majority in the House when it demanded a stronger navy.

The National Convention was fresh from the people. Each delegate was just from home and knew the sentiment of the people behind him, and each delegate knew that the sentiment of the American people keenly resented the suggestion of reducing the American Navy to fifth place instead of second place among the battle fleets of the world.

The National Convention of Democrats had no sympathy with the pork politics and the false standard of maudlin economy which King Caucus had dictated to the militant and triumphant majority of the Democratic House.

And the question today is whether the Democratic majority of the House shall take its instructions fresh from the people assembled in convention or from a few leaders "playing politics" and defying public sentiment and degrading the Navy at a time when all other nations—even the most menacing to us—are building battleships with furious energy and speed.

The Democratic National Convention is the latest and most authentic expression of Democratic sentiment throughout the country. The emphasis it gave to a stronger navy as an indispensable necessity to the maintenance of the Monroe Doctrine just at a time when the Monroe Doctrine means most to our territorial integrity and our commercial prosperity seems almost inspired.

Against the House caucus playing politics and the people speaking fresh through a national convention of unbiased delegates, the Democratic Representatives in the House should not hesitate a moment. Between the people and the caucus every Representative should promptly and fearlessly follow the people.

Robert E. Lee, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, set the brave example by voting his convictions for two battleships.

The Senate stands patriotically firm and insistent for the two-battleship programme.

No House Democrat who thinks our Navy needs two battleships should hesitate to say so—as Mr. Lee has done—and to vote so when his name is called.

Desperate Desmond—and 3 Heroes

LISTEN, TAFT AND WILSON, I AND WE ARE REGULAR CLAUDE ECLAIRES IN THIS POLITICAL SITUATION. I AND YOU MUST LOOK OUT, EACH FOR HIMSELF IN SAVING ROSAMOND ELECTION FROM "DESPERATE DESMOND" PROHIBITION AT ATLANTIC CITY
WITH THESE BATHING SUITS WE CAN HIDE UNDER THE PIER AND OVERHEAR PROHIBITION PLANS
LIPS THAT TOUCH WHISKEY SHALL NEVER TOUCH MINE!
CLAUDE WILSON IS ALL RIGHT BUT—I MUST FOIL CLAUDE ROOSEVELT
CLAUDE TAFT WILL NEVER GET ROSAMOND ELECTION WITH HIS WHISKEY PARTY WHISKEY
WHISKEY
AS I WILL DASH THESE VILE SPIRITS INTO THE OCEAN SO WILL I OUR PARTY DASH
THE HONEYMAKERS
HORRORS! THESE FLOATING BARRELS FORCE ME TO SWIM OUT
CURSES! SHE MUST BE MINE
SAVE ME, MY HEROES, FROM DESPERATE DESMOND - PROHIBITION
THESE SPHERICAL RECEPTACLES FOR SPIRITUOUS LIQUORS FORCE ME TO EVERT MY NATATORIAL DEXTERITY
AH, 'TIS ROSAMOND ELECTION
HERSHFIELD

1—THE PLOTTERS. Heroes Claude Taft, Claude Roosevelt and Claude Wilson pool their brains—we don't say which of 'em contributes the biggest share—in an effort to save Rosamond Election from Desperate Desmond Prohibition.

2—TO THE SEA. Ah ha! that Prohibition Convention is being held on a pier in Atlantic City, as you may tell from the chorus ringing o'er the waves.

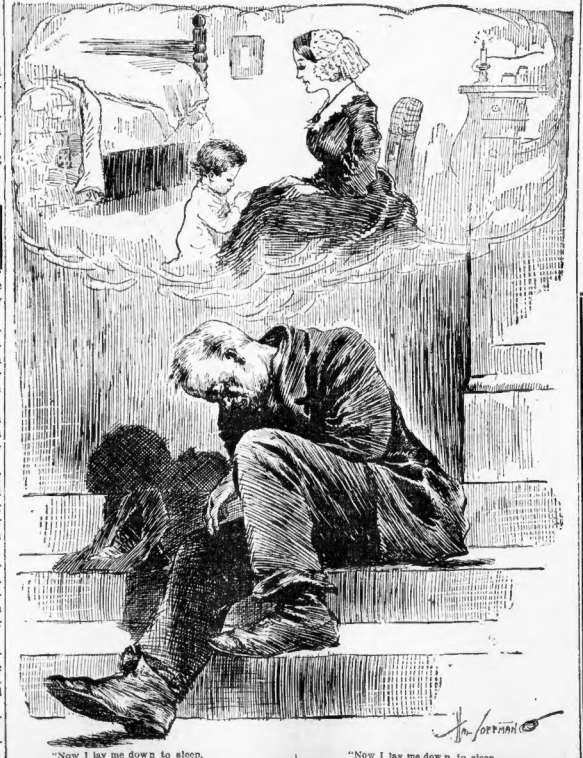
3—EAVESDROPPING. Listeners hear no good of themselves. Desmond Prohibition denounces all three of our heroes as pals of Demon Rum.

4—OVERBOARD. Over go the casks, kegs and barrels, as Desmond Prohibition uses them to illustrate his speech.

5—DRIVEN OUT. Our three heroes have to swim from the pier to avoid the drifting bbls., thereby causing—

6—A RACE. All three heroes and the villain swim to reach Rosamond Election, at present tethered out in the water.

Now I Lay Me---



"Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray Thee, Lord, my soul to keep"—
Run a thousand lisping pleas
At a thousand mothers' knees.

"Now I lay me down to sleep
Any place where I may creep"—
Well the mother cannot see
The lad who whispered at her knee

The Education of the Voter

No. 8 Party Man and Politics

Before Choosing His Party Young Voter Should Study Country's Political History -:- -:-

By THOMAS TAPPER

POLITICAL parties are necessarily recognized in the management of government affairs. You, as a citizen, in turn exert your influence on government affairs through the party.

It is a nice question with what party a young man should affiliate himself. This question may occupy you at this time. If it does, you ought to stop a moment to consider this: In 1787 the Constitution of the United States was ratified, and we proceeded, as a people, to do business on its articles, modified later on by its amendments. But before that famous document came into being we gave notice to the world at large of our intentions by issuing another famous document.

This document was dated July 4, 1776, and is called the Declaration of Independence. This declaration said, "These United Colonies are, of a right, meant to be free and independent States." Further it says that all men alike have certain rights, among them, "Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness."

Here is the basis for your start in life as a voter. It is the easiest thing imaginable to join a political party because some one else does so. It is the hardest thing imaginable to do it on the authority of your own conviction. You cannot decide this by proxy, and you cannot decide it in a hurry.

Get hold of the simple principle of the Declaration of Independence and of the Federal Constitution. Then begin to study party leaders. They are an interesting set of gentlemen, divisible into two classes: (1) Statesmen, who do a full day's work for the good of their country. This it patriotism. (2) Demagogues, who do a full day's work for the good of themselves. This is self-interest. The statesman is the life and vitality of his times and people. The demagogue is the deadly blight that saps life and vitality.

Back of the political leaders there is always persistently before the people what are known as public questions. It takes a lot of thought to frame them and to bring them before the people. Consequently they are worthy of much thought on the part of the people. This is where your real value as a voter will begin to come in. A question of a political nature comes up because somebody thinks it out. It may be a statesman who does this, or a party heeler. It is necessary to know which, and to be sure one has to go through the woodpile carefully to find what is concealed.

Of course there is a good deal of trouble in being a voter of this kind. But remember this: To study public questions carefully and to vote on them intelligently is a comparatively pleasant occupation as compared to doing the military service which would be demanded of you were you living in one of many European countries.

Hence joining a party is secondary to joining yourself to movements that proceed from good statesmanship. You may often have to resort to your own Declaration of Independence to vote according to your conscience. But that is vastly better than following the leaders of a party right or wrong. This is a Declaration of Dependence.

You do not ultimately depend on party, but on principle. If you are a strict party man, you must fight for principle and fight hard. Otherwise, Dependence and not Independence will fasten on you.

If you will watch men about you, you will find that when their "rights" are involved—like personal liberty, or the right of private property—they will fight hard enough, because their own interests are threatened. But many of them make no fight at all when the interests of the national family are involved. You must learn to do this, and carry out the oft-repeated suggestion that every voter should first be a good statesman.

All this makes it plain that the political rights of a private citizen can be considerable trouble. But it constitutes the only form of national defense that is asked of a citizen. If you rebel at the trouble and prefer that some one else do your thinking for you, it can be easily arranged. Political parties are full of smooth-tongued gentlemen, who will tell you exactly what to do, and even encourage you to do it.

But it is wise to bite that coin and see how soft it is. You are never going to get much private prosperity if you delegate your thinking. So whatever party you select, watch its leaders and its platform.

YESTERDAY'S Sunday AMERICAN, edited by Governor Frederick W. Plaisted of Maine, scored one of the biggest successes in the history of New England journalism.

NEXT Sunday, July 21, the Sunday AMERICAN will be edited by Governor Robert P. Bass of New Hampshire. It will be a notable issue, of interest not only to the people of the Granite State, but to readers all over New England.

GOVERNOR EUGENE N. FOSS of Massachusetts will be in editorial charge of the issue of Sunday, July 28. He announces that he will probably take as his subject for the leading editorial: "Public regulation of the railroad lines serving New England; why past Legislatures have refused to grant it, and how to get it this Fall."

GOVERNOR ARAM J. POTHIER of Rhode Island will be the editor of the Sunday AMERICAN of August 4, and will bring to the attention of the citizens of New England matters which he considers of interest to them.

THE last of the five "Governors' Editions" of the Sunday AMERICAN will be under the editorial charge of Governor John A. Mead of Vermont, and will be issued Sunday, August 11.
